WARREN COUNTY

Warren County school tax for 1967-68 will remain at its present level should the District School Board accept a budget recommended last night by its finance committee. Although the budget calls for an increase of $964,924 over last year, Thomas K. Barratt, superintendent, said the increase would be covered by state aid. Page one.

Youngsville Recreation Commission was granted by the community's borough council permission to enclose the swimming pool shelter. Street paving and sidewalk construction was postponed. Zoning ordinance amendments will be discussed in a special meeting Monday. Page A2.

County Commissioners unanimously passed the 1967 budget calling for $992,085. Blain M. Mead questioned several of the programs before confirmation. Page one.

THE NATION

WASHINGTON — Faced with the threat of a nationwide railroad strike set for Wednesday midnight, President Johnson asked Congress for a joint resolution to delay the walkout for 20 days. For a while, it appeared that congressional action might not be necessary. Top negotiators for labor and management told the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee that they would recommend a voluntary 20-day extension to their members. The industry later approved the delay, but the six unions turned it down. Page One.

WASHINGTON — Charging that "the poor are fed up with all this bungling," a group of House Republicans called for the abolition of the Office of Economic Opportunity and the assignment of its antipoverty functions to other federal departments, mainly the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. THE WORLD

On the eve of the opening of the meeting of hemisphere chiefs of state in Uruguay, it appeared yesterday that the United States and Latin American Republics have sharp differences of opinion over the future of trade policies in the hemisphere.

WASHINGTON — President Johnson was scheduled to leave last night for the three-day meeting. One expected result of the meeting is the ratification of a long-term plan for the creation of a common market of the nations of Central and South America — a 15-year project to generate economic development by abolishing tariffs in the trade among Latin nations. WASHINGTON — During a report to President Johnson on his recent diplomatic mission to Europe, Vice President Humphrey said that U. S. relations are entering a new era that could lead to expanded global responsibilities for the Atlantic community. Page A3.

Warren County Holds Line on Taxes

Commissioners Approve $992,085 Budget 3 to 0

The Warren County Commissioners yesterday gave final approval to the $992,085 budget for 1967.

The vote was unanimous although Commissioner Blain M. Mead questioned the items budgeted for the regional airport proposal and $30,000 for the expansion program at the Hoffman Children's Home. He asked in particular if the latter amount would be sufficient to pay for the proposed expansion expected to be completed this year.

Mead said the complete estimate was in the neighborhood of $60,000. Lewis L. Crippen reminded him that monies for expansion at the Rouse Home and improvements at the court house were not budgeted all in one year.

Commissioner Mead also pointed out that while the millage in the county has remained firm at seven mills, assessment during the last seven years has increased $10 million.

It was noted that most boroughs and townships have increased millage since 1959 while the county, except for capital improvements, had no millage increase in 12 years. Part of the increased income from assessments, the commissioners said, came from the increased assessment on oil production. Mead

President Departs On Foreign Journey

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Within hours after welcoming Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey home from Europe, President Johnson took off last night on a foreign journey himself—to the hemisphere summit meeting at Punta del Este, Uruguay.

Johnson scheduled an 11 p.m. departure from Dulles Airport aboard his Air Force One jetliner for the 10-hour, 5,000-mile flight to Montevideo. From the Uruguayan capital he takes a helicopter for the short hop to the seaside summit site.

In welcoming Humphrey at a White House ceremony, Johnson took note of his imminent southward flight.

Then he said to the Vice President:

"Between us, we will have shared within a few weeks a degree of consultation and discussion unequalled—so far as I can recall—in all our history.

"There is a reason for these consultations, and it was well expressed during your visit to Europe.

"The essence of statesmanship," you said, "is not a rigid adherence to the past, but a present and probing concern for the future."

The avowed aim of the three-day gathering of American presidents is to pump new life into the Alliance for Progress, and Johnson was reported hopeful that the Latin American leaders would agree on important self-help measures to push ahead the economic development program.

The United States was prime mover in the birth of the alliance in 1961 and has been the biggest outside contributor since with $6.5 billion so far.

But White House sources said Johnson's role at Punta del Este would be only that of a "junior partner" with the Latin American chiefs. This is because the Latin Americans themselves are putting large resources into alliance projects and must cope with difficulties of adjusting their economies, it was explained.

CHURCH TO BE DEMOLISHED

The First EUB Church, adjacent to the Municipal Building on Third ave., will soon fall before demolition activities by the Leo T. Oliver Co. of Erie, Pa., who was low bidder for the job at $9,000. Work will probably get under way next month with the church to be down within 45 days from order to proceed. INSPECTS SCHOOL BUDGET

Melvin G. Keller, Warren County District School Board president, inspects the proposed 1967-68 budget submitted by the board's finance committee last night. School taxes will stay the same if the board decides May 8 to adopt the proposed budget, even though it is $964,924 greater than this year's budget. The difference will reportedly be made up by state funds. (Photo by Mahan)

Labor Committee Moves To Delay Rail Strike

By GARDNER L. BRIDGE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee approved 14-6 last night a resolution asked by President Johnson extending for 20 days the no-strike period in the rail shopcraft dispute.

Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala., said the measure will be taken up for Senate debate today soon after the body meets at 11 a.m. (EST), an hour ahead of the normal time.

House leaders plan to bring up a companion resolution at the same time.

The Senate panel was called back into session last night after collapse of its efforts to arrange a voluntary extension of the deadline for the walkout that threatens to pile a nationwide rail strike on top of the trucking shutdown.

Union representatives rejected the proposal.

The union turnaround came in the face of an urgent request by President Johnson for congressional action to force an extension of the statutory no-strike cooling-off period that runs out at midnight Wednesday.

Members of the Senate Labor Committee, meeting on Johnson's request, urged union and management spokesmen to recommend a voluntary agreement that would make congressional action unnecessary.

The railways reported back through J.E. Wolfe, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference, that they were willing to resume wage bargaining talks as soon as the six AFL-CIO shopcraft unions agreed to the extension.

But Joseph Ramsey of the Machinists Union, one of the labor spokesmen, said, "We turned it down."

Johnson, preparing to leave for the Punta del Este summit conference in South America, asked Congress in a special message to head off the threatened rail strike.

And he asked also that the Justice Department determine whether an 80-day injunction can be obtained to halt the trucking shutdown.

The crippling impact of the truck lockout was felt swiftly in the automobile industry with all the principal manufacturers in the Detroit area and elsewhere scheduling substantial cutbacks for today in the wake of rather limited effects Monday.

Other industries were affected, too, and the disruption was expected to snowball as the supply of raw materials and parts dried up.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said he expects there will be action in Congress today to avert the threatened railroad strike.

Meanwhile, it was learned that government officials are keeping a close watch on the impact of the trucking industry shutdown but as of now there does not appear sufficient reason to invoke an 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction to get the trucks rolling again.

The legal questions of invoking a Taft-Hartley injunction in a case where an industry is largely responsible for the cutting off of shipments presents special and novel problems, sources said.

Government sources said it appears that a high percentage of food shipments are moving despite the trucking shutdown.

But as to the effects on other industries there is not yet a clear over-all picture, government sources said.

These sources said it is not known whether all Trucking Employers Inc. companies are taking part in the shutdown.

BORO COUNCIL MEETS $100,000 Offered For Warren Airport

By BETTY RICE

The long-awaited building, housing and plumbing codes—so essential to the progress of urban renewal in Warren borough—have been released by the planning commission.

They will be reviewed by council and the Citizen's Advisory Committee and council last night unanimously approved a resolution to advertise its intent to consider adoption of the codes at the May 8 regular meeting.

Council was also approached by the Allegheny Industrial Park principals, J. Albert Loranger and Ernest C. Miller, to purchase the Warren Airport for $100,000 in fee simple for construction of an industrial park in that section. (See letter on page 2.) The offer was turned over to the planning committee for consideration.

When planning committee chairman Ray Marti presented the resolution regarding the various codes and noted that the electrical code was contained in the building code—the lights in council chamber promptly went out to lend emphasis to Marti's points.

After a fairly lengthy recess—still in darkness, council moved to the Civil Defense room in the basement to continue its business. Penelec crews found a main amplifier fuse "cooked" and temporary power was restored. Council, however, stuck it out in the basement.

It was noted the borough has an adequate fire code but a new one is being written up and will eventually be adopted once the borough solicitor meets with the planning commission to iron out a few wrinkles. This will not interfere with the workable plan's recertification for urban renewal.

Councilman Tony Tomassoni suggested the codes might prove a "hot potato" but President James Torrance stated that while the codes might not be the

State Aid Expected To Cover Increase In School Budget

By STEVE CULLINANE

School taxes will stay the same, if Warren County School District Board accepts the budget recommended last night by its finance committee. Board members will consider the budget at their next meeting, May 8.

The proposed 1967-68 budget totals $7,758,154 up $964,924 from this year's budget.

District school superintendent Thomas K. Barratt said the budget increase could be paid for out of increases in state aid for paying teachers.

This year, Barratt said, state funds for "reimbursable teaching" totaled $2,310,174. The proposed budget sets $3,348,160 as the expected state aid for teaching salaries. The difference between the two figures is $1,037,986, which more than covers the proposed budget increase.

Barratt said that $741,000 of the new budget would cover newly-incurred costs at Eisenhower High School and at the yet-to-be-built Allegheny Valley (Clarendon) School. Construction, rental and teaching costs would be covered.

The finance committee recommended a property tax of 34 mills, a per capita tax of $5, a $5 resident tax, and a .5 per cent earned income tax. School bond issue sinking fund requirements call for an additional three mill real estate

Kindergarten Bus Service Cancelled

Pittsfield area kindergarten pupils will no longer have mid-day school bus transportation, Warren County School District Board meeting last night, decided to cancel the bus service.

J. Blair Logan, district director of elementary education, said the action was taken for financial reasons. He said Pittsfield is the only area with such bus service.

Logan noted that kindergarten attendance is not compulsory under state law; for that reason, state funds are not available for kindergarten transportation.

In the future, he said, he will try to encourage the formation of car pools by putting all pupils from any given area into the same kindergarten.

Transportation for kindergarten pupils will be provided the board noted, "on morning and afternoon runs, where there is available space on buses on existing routes."

Shafer To Deliver Budget Today

HARRISBURG (AP) — The legislature held a brief session yesterday and then adjourned until today to await Gov. Shafer's delivery of his proposed 1967-68 budget to a joint session of the general assembly.

The House met for just five minutes and adjourned that quickly out of respect for Rep. Rocco A. Odorisio, R-Delaware, who died Wednesday. His funeral was yesterday.

Routine business was conducted in the Senate which met for less than an hour.

A tight cloak of secrecy still enveloped Shafer's proposed budget. There was still no official comment as to whether a tax increase would be requested.

The governor briefed Republican legislative leaders in the late afternoon and they remained in the Governor's office until their departure to a downtown hotel for an off-the-record budget briefing for newsmen.

The Shafer Administration, going to great lengths for secrecy, placed a strict embargo of 1 p. m., EST, today, on the budget material, which is the time Shafer will deliver his spending proposal to the legislature.

COUNCIL 'IN THE DARK'

Warren Borough Council was literally "in the dark" last night when a power failure plunged the meeting chambers into utter darkness. When the source of the trouble could not immediately be detected and remedied, the town fathers "saw the light" in regard to moving on proposed building, housing and plumbing codes, when they moved to Civil Defense headquarters in the basement. The situation was well in hand since there was an ample quantity of survival supplies stored in the meeting area. (Photo by Mahan) way everyone wanted them, they could still be adopted and cleared up later. Torrance said council had learned much from mistakes of other communities which adopted codes and advised the local documents pretty much followed U.S. codes. Council president said "We've got to move—we can't take a year to work on it."

The Citizens Advisory Committee will be responsible for studying the atmosphere and assisting council in adoption of the codes.

Tomassoni, speaking for the public safety committee, recommended that due to the increased number of cars in the borough each year and parking and street cleaning problems, that with the exception of metered areas, the borough adopt a system of odd and even parking. Tomassoni said James-town, N.Y. has found the system very satisfactory.

While admitting the proposal presented several difficulties, council intimated it would give the matter thorough study. They will also take a harder look at placing additional stop signs at intersections regardless of accident statistics or the number of vehicles passing through.

Bids for the 1967 street paving program were opened and turned over to the borough engineer for review. A resolution to accept them will be presented at 7:30 p.m. April 24 at an adjourned meeting of council.

Council went on record as favoring passage of House Bill 334 which provides tax money allocations on premiums from foreign fire and casualty insurance. This would not affect borough or police pension funds but would provide about $350 per borough employee per year in the retirement system. It now costs the borough about $9,000 and if the bill passes, state aid would amount to about $10,000 annually and relieve the borough of this budget expense. Council will ask Senator Richard C. Frame to support passage of the bill by the senate.

A public hearing has been set for 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 27 in council chambers for acceptance of Edgewood pl. as a public street. Residents in that area will have an opportunity to present their views at that time.

Councilman Rockwell O'Sheill told council that plans for the Oak street recreation center are in final stages and should be in visible form to present to council within three to four weeks.

The borough engineer reported the Indian Run flood control project nearly complete with seeding still to be done.

A bid of $46,898 by G & R Construction Co. for construction of storm sewers on Lexington avenue and S. Parker street was accepted.

Solicitor S. Knox Harper advised that council should have a borough plan of streets by the adjourned meeting date. Included in the plan would be the proposed extension of Cone-wango and Lexington avenues.

Despite the blackout and a lengthy agenda, council was adjourned at 9:15 p.m. Thirteen members were present with Councilmen Karl Timm, Dr. Lawrence Krespan, Joseph Bevevino and Dr. Robert Probst absent.

AFTRA Settles 13-Day Strike

By ARTHUR EVERETT
NEW YORK (AP)—The AFL-CIO American Federation of Television and Radio Artists ended its 13-day strike last night against the three big television networks.

The strike ended in time for ABC to telecast the Academy Awards. The show went on from Santa Monica, Calif., at 10 p.m. as scheduled.

AFTRA's national board, meeting in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles and communicating by phone, approved terms of a contract reached at dawn with ABC, NBC and CBS. Formal approval is required from the union's 18,000 members.

Union leaders immediately called a halt to picketing in Los Angeles, Chicago and most spots in New York.

Donald F. Conway, head of AFTRA, said the tentative settlement jumps the newsmen's base wage from the current $275 a week to $300 retroactive to last Nov. 16. In addition, they will get 25 per cent of all commercial fees retroactive to last March 1.

The union had sought a base wage of $325 a week, 50 per cent of commercial fees now and all the fees in 18 months.

One of the last to join an NBC picket line outside the RCA Building in New York was Walter P. Reuther, president of the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers. He carried a sign and paraded bareheaded shortly before the end of the strike was announced.

"I'm keeping a commitment I made last Friday when chances of settlement looked remote," said Reuther, head of the 1.2 million UAW, largest union in the AFL-CIO.

ABC had cancelled the Academy Award telecast last Friday and the $1.5-million sponsor contract with Eastman Kodak appeared to have gone down the drain. However, rehearsals continued and with the end of the strike all was in readiness to set cameras rolling.

Several shots were heard near Tennessee State University on the city's northwest side as several small groups, mostly young Negroes, began gathering in the Fisk University area some 20 blocks away.

Yesterday afternoon, Mayor Beverly Briley promised that "law and order will prevail." He expressed belief that policemen had the situation in hand and termed the disturbances, including gunfire, rock and brick throwing, gasoline bombs and several fires, an "insurrection."

Gunshots Break Quiet In Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Gunshots last night broke an uneasy peace which had prevailed for 12 hours and sent police to Nashville's Negro college area, scene of two straight nights of rioting.

Several shots were heard near Tennessee State University on the city's northwest side as several small groups, mostly young Negroes, began gathering in the Fisk University area some 20 blocks away.

Youngsville Council OK's Enclosing Swim Shelter

Youngsville borough council in an adjourned session last evening granted permission to the Recreation Commission to enclose the swimming pool shelter. The Commission estimates the cost to be $500. The area will house a concession stand, first aid room and lockers for the personnel.

Council accepted an offer by Mayor Ernest McGraw to use his equipment in removing the top soil on the parking lot owned by the Youngsville Business Peoples Assn. and located adjacent to the swimming pool. Councilmen will drive trucks on Saturday to deliver gravel to the parking lot. McGraw will donate his lift to load the gravel from a commercial pit. The borough will purchase the gravel.

Council agreed to hold a special session next Monday at 7 p.m. to discuss proposed amendments to the zoning ordinance. Council has tentatively approved postponement of street paving and sidewalk construction in new subdivisions as long as the streets remain privately owned and require no maintenance by the borough.

If the amendment is approved as presently conceived, every purchaser of a lot in a subdivision must be warned that the borough will not accept the streets until blacktopped and other improvements completed in accordance with the present ordinance. The Planning Commission will be invited to the meeting to discuss the proposal. A public hearing is expected to be held in the very near future.

Preston of Brookville submitted the only proposal for construction of sanitary sewers and water mains under the proposed Route 6 Youngsville bypass. The bid of $10,824.50 for all new material and $9,928.50 for partially used material was received and taken under consideration. The specifications include installation of two hydrants in the Oak st. area.

166 Viet Cong are Reported Killed in Two-Day Battle

By BOB GASSAWAY
SAIGON (AP)—Troops of the newest U.S. Army division in Vietnam killed 166 battle-hardened Viet Cong in a two-day fight that ended last night just 20 miles southwest of Saigon. The increased tempo of ground fighting continued elsewhere in the war.

Over-all enemy casualties after 24 hours of fighting—chiefly around Saigon—left 315 Communists dead, the U.S. Command reported. U.S. casualties reported were 4 men killed and 79 wounded. Thirty of the wounded were Marines aboard an Amtrak that hit a mine 14 miles southwest of Da Nang.

At the same time the command acknowledged that U.S. warplanes have been dropping cluster bomb units all along in raids on North Vietnam. Such units are canisters containing 800 small bombs about the size of a fist with damage capability of 800 hand grenades. U.S. officials said they are used against antiaircraft guns and crews, surface-to-air missile sites, radar installations and such "thin-skinned" targets as barracks, truck convoys and light armor. The bombs are

Mao Apparent Victor Over Liu

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, (AP) — Mao Tse-tung apparently won his victory over President Liu Shao-chi in the politburo Standing Committee by stacking that highest policy body in Red China with his followers, a Tanjug News Agency dispatch from Peking said yesterday.

The procedure shows why the removal of Liu and his lieutenants from positions of power in the party is so slow, said Branko Bogunovic, Tanjug's correspondent. But he predicted some action against them soon. Bogunovic said only the addition of four members to the Standing Committee, possibly at the plenary session of the Central Committee last August, permitted Mao to win a 6-5 victory in his struggle with Liu after two weeks of sessions ending early this month.

LBJ Praises Humphrey On His Return to U.S.

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson welcomed Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey home yesterday from a turbulent mission to Europe, and said the West cannot attain its ambitions until "the ancient world of Asia" is a full partner in progress.

Amid pomp and military ceremony on the south lawn of the White House, Johnson said the vice president carried that message to the leaders of Europe.

Thus the war in Vietnam marked Humphrey's homecoming as it shadowed his two-week journey to seven European nations.

"You have carried to them our conviction that peace, like freedom, is indivisible," Johnson told the vice president. "Neither the New World of the Americas nor the Old World of Europe, can hope to fulfill its dreams and ambitions until the ancient world of Asia has become a full and equal partner in the forward movement of man."

"No one knows better than you, Mr. Vice President, that this conviction lies at the very roots of American policy in Vietnam, and throughout Asia," the President said. "And I be-

The Communists have charged the bombs are aimed at killing or maiming civilians.

The biggest Communist losses in the ground actions were in the two-day clash near Rach Kien, southwest of Saigon.

Expect Harlem To Re-elect Powell Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Harlem goes to the polls today and is expected to re-elect Adam Clayton Powell to the Congress which expelled him.

The question is whether there will be a big turnout to protest the expulsion of the 58-year-old Negro congressman—or whether the voters will stay home from complacency.

"Everybody is sure that Powell will be re-elected," said his campaign chairman, L. Joseph Overton. "This complacency may stop them from coming out and voting." He said the campaign was short of funds to advertise the protest vote angle.

Powell, handily elected every two years since 1944, did not campaign in person. He can be arrested for contempt of court if he returns from his island retreat in Bimini, the Bahamas.

The contempt charge, stemming from a defamation judgment, was one reason Congress ousted him. He also was accused of misusing public funds, and pocketing the pay of his estranged wife, on his payroll as an aide.

His opponents, both Negroes, are Lucille Pickett Williams, 50, Republican, an attractive, articulate and veteran GOP worker; and the Rev. Ervin F. Yearling, 38, Conservative, a Baptist preacher like Powell. Mrs. Williams did not campaign either and said she "never had any illusions about beating Adam."

lieve that conviction and policy are clearer today, in the minds of our friends in Europe, because you were there to personally express them."

Humphrey encountered shouting, egg-throwing demonstrators, protesting the Vietnam war, in five European cities.

Nevertheless, he was said to feel the mission had achieved diplomatic successes, and reassured European leaders that the United States will not turn its back on them despite its troubles in Asia.

In Paris, the United States officially protested the anti-American demonstrations which occurred during Humphrey's visit. Robert H. Mc Bride, embassy minister, delivered the oral protest to the foreign ministry. The incidents occurred Friday.

The Soviet Union took note of the demonstrations in a Pravda report which said Humphrey's mission was a failure.

"Our friends in Europe remain our good friends," Humphrey told Johnson at the White House. "We do have reason for optimism."

Humphrey will make a full report to the President later, and some believe he may recommend that Johnson undertake a similar journey to Europe.

under attack by a battalion of the 39th Regiment of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division—the "Old Reliabilities"—which began arriving in South Vietnam Dec. 19 mainly for operations in the Mekong River Delta, a Communist stronghold for 20 years.

Associated Press Correspondent John Nance reported from Rach Kien the 9th Division troops, supported by some South Vietnamese infantrymen, moved into the area after U.S. Air Force jets softened it up. The first ground contact came Sunday. By last night the fighting had died down.

The Communists killed were believed to be members of the main-force 506th Battalion and the 2nd Independent Battalion.

In the most significant single action in the fighting, a company of "Old Reliabilities" engaged an estimated 100 Viet Cong near a river.

Capt. Joseph Nichols, 24, of Pittsburgh, Pa., said the Communists used 60 and 30 caliber machine guns but with little effect. Nichols added that 43 of the enemy were killed when the U.S. troops backed the Reds to the river and called in armed helicopters and artillery barrages.

United States Bases B-52's In Thailand

By PETER BRAESTRUP
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SATTAPHI, Thailand—Big and menacing in their black and green paint, three big B-52 bombers swept in over the Gulf of Siam yesterday morning and landed here at U Taphao Airfield, the biggest and newest American-built air base in Thailand.

The three heavy jet bombers were the first of their species to be based in Thailand. Their deployment here, with perhaps seven more to come, represented yet another Thai commitment to the allied effort in Vietnam. It also meant a modest but helpful step-up of the B-52's combat efficiency.

About an hour earlier, the three high-flying jets, coming from their home base at Guam, had loosed their payloads of 500-pound and 750-pound bombs on what an Air Force spokesman described as "an enemy base camp and storage center" 30 miles northwest of Saigon.

For Capt. Karl W. Schmidt of Haverton, Pa., the 29-year-old pilot of the lead bomber, it was the 46th such mission over South Vietnam.

"The weather was beautiful all the way," he said, as he and his five-man crew, wearing their squadron's red scarves and baseball caps, lined up for the television cameras.

Authoritative U.S. sources in Bangkok derided recent news reports out of Washington that Thai hesitation had delayed a long-planned move to put the B-52's here. U Taphao's 11,500-foot runway, officially opened last August, was designed initially to handle heavily-laden KC-135 jet tankers which refuel Air Force fighter-bombers striking at North Vietnam. The $100 million base was not fully operational until Feb. 1.

Moreover, these sources said, Washington's final decision to ask Thailand for permission to base B-52's here did not come until early last month.

Repubs Blast Antipoverty Plan

By MARJORIE HUNTER

(c) New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON—Saying that they have the backing of many of the poor, House Republicans proposed yesterday a $1.7 billion plan to replace the administration's embattled antipoverty program.

The Republicans called for abolition of the Office of Economic Opportunity and assignment of its functions to other government departments, largely to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"The poor are fed up with all this bungling," Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., said.

Unless the antipoverty program is drastically revamped, he said, "Congress may well kill off the whole thing this year."

Aware that the antipoverty program is in serious trouble with Congress, the administration jumped the gun on Republican critics Sunday by asking for some far-reaching changes in the present law.

Among other things, the administration proposed annual audits of antipoverty programs, screening out troublemakers from the Job Corps, barring antipoverty workers from partisan political activity, and banning the use of federal funds for "illegal picketing or demonstrations."

The administration also proposed greater participation by the states and the inclusion of mayors or other elected community officials on local antipoverty boards.

With this proposal the administration is seeking to smooth over one of its thorniest problems.

During the last year or so, there has been open political warfare between antipoverty agencies and many city halls and county courthouses. Elected officials have complained bitterly that antipoverty planners have tried to undercut them politically.

In disclosing their alternative yesterday, the Republicans described the administration's proposals as "an admission of substantial failure."

The Republican plan, called the opportunity crusade, is sponsored by 10 of the 14 Republicans on the House Education and Labor Committee, which will handle the antipoverty legislation. The Republican's $1.7 billion price tag for the year starting July 1, is $300 million less than the sum sought by President Johnson.

However, the Republicans said that by involving states and private industry on a matching basis, their plan would provide $400 million dollars more than the President sought.

In addition to dismantling the O.E.O., the Republicans called for changes in existing antipoverty programs and the addition of new ones.

They proposed creation of new military career centers within the Department of Defense for volunteers unable to meet Selective Service requirements.

They proposed converting existing Neighborhood Youth Corps —under which youths work part-time—into a work-study program

GOP ANNOUNCEMENT For COUNTY COMMISSIONER

By Anthony Tomassoni

To all taxpayers - - to all persons interested in Warren County:

Warren County is big business and as such it needs to be run with a strict hand. Yes, I say Warren County is big business; it takes dedication, not promises; it takes effort, not the attitude, "well, maybe we will get together tomorrow"; it takes honesty and sincerity and above all, a full time job. I realize that the problems facing us are many and complex, so you the taxpayer must make a very real attempt to get out and exercise your right to elect proper representation which in effect means, who are you going to put into office.

When anyone in any commercial, industrial, or any type of business does not produce or help the betterment of that company, something is done immediately. They are replaced by competent workers who will produce and have the interest of the company at heart. So you see, it is quite simple. When you have the right group of men hired [elected] then and only then will the results be a better community, a place for people to move into, not out of, and pride in all of our public servants, at long last we will know everyone is on the job they are being paid for. Again, I sincerely ask for your support and vote so I may represent each and everyone of you, and God willing, I pledge my sincere and honest dedication to examine all problems and seek an early solution, one which will result in a better way of life for everyone in Warren County.

There are many choices for this position, so this should definitely be a year of awakening. Do something about our local government — get out and vote this primary election day. If elected - - I will give careful consideration to the great potential of tourist trade because of the Kinzua Dam, which if developed properly will automatically aid our economic growth and help every business establishment in our community and county, and give more taxpayers better job opportunity.

I will try to do something about housing, especially for the Senior Citizen, so he or she may maintain dignity and hope rather than be abandoned because no one cares or has the foresight to do something about it. These problems can and will be resolved. There is no reason why they cannot be improved if dedicated men really represent their respective offices, after all you as a taxpayer are the real employer of any elected official, and where that trust of faith has been given to any one individual the least he can do is give it his utmost sincerity and consideration at all times. Any problems can be solved, but it takes cooperation and a sincere desire to accomplish what in the past has been neglected so obviously with the result being a lot of meaningless promises and deliberate action on the part of all concerned for self attainment with utter disregard to many issues never solved. How long can we go on this way?

We need action now; we need responsible representation; we need results; we need careful consideration of all problems no matter how big or small; we need to know and understand our community and county and then work and cooperate. With cooperation and dedication we cannot help but have a better and brighter future for Warren County.

So I say, let us begin, let us not wait for the other person to do it, you do it. How? Get out and VOTE! This is your community and county and your children's community and county. Let's make them proud, because in doing so, we will all have a feeling of accomplishment that will benefit everyone in all walks of life. God willing, these are my goals, my dreams, and I think truly they can become a reality, but I need your help and support — VOTE! Those are not election year promises, but my solemn pledge to all people of Warren County. Also to work at this job a full 40 hours a week to do the job that should be done.

Vote the No. 1 position on the ballot.

Draft Call: 961

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Selective Service System said yesterday it would call up 961 Pennsylvanians in June for induction into the Army.

This is to help meet a draft call of 19,800 men for the month announced by the Pentagon. It is the biggest call of the year.

A Commendable Venture

Two Warren businessmen, J. Albert Loring and Ernest C. Miller, stated to Warren Borough Council last night they are prepared to offer $100,000 for the Warren Airport in fee simple. They are operating as Allegheny Industrial Park and have interest in establishing a new Industrial Park Complex in Warren.

Council last night turned the proposal over to its planning committee for consideration.

We find the action of the two local businessmen very commendable. Aside from undoubtedly being a wise business venture, it is the kind of

JOSEPH ALSOP

The Vital III Corps Area

BIEN HOA, VIETNAM — This little province town not far from Saigon is the headquarters of God knows how many pieces of machinery so vast that the earth itself seems to groan under the burden. And it is also the headquarters of the Second U.S. Army Field Force, with responsibility for the whole huge, complex vital III Corps area.

Three Corps contains not only a long series of rich provinces and Saigon itself; in addition, it contains all but a couple of the huge, formerly impenetrable jungle "war zones" that used to provide absolutely immune bases for the big units of the enemy. After wandering from division to division, therefore, this is a good place to come to take a general look at the progress of the war in the single region of most importance to Hanoi and the VC.

Here at Bien Hoa, there is no stirring spectacle of young and brave American troops hotly engaged in battle, as at Landing Zone George. Here, instead, one sees the larger, more somber drama of Hanoi's war plans gone terribly wrong.

Precious few Americans, even here in Vietnam, understand the luridly unreal character of the war plans Hanoi adopted in response to the U.S. intervention on the ground in 1965. The aims were to cut the country in half at the waist and to invade the city of Saigon, and these aims were to be achieved by a major troop build-up despite the U.S. intervention.

The landscape is littered with phantoms of these aims. For instance, the move against Saigon was to be led by the Fifth VC Division, coming down from Phuoc Tay Province, with the Ninth VC and the Seventh North Vietnamese Divisions pushing over from the west in support. Because of the harsh attrition inflicted by Gen. William C. Westmoreland's search-and-destroy strategy, the supposed leading division, the Fifth VC, never really reached divisional status. Its operations officer, Lt. Col. Nam Hung, defected last summer, revealing that his outfit still possessed only two regiments, one completely worthless and both riddled with malaria.

Avoidance of combat appeared for a long time to be this miserable outfit's prime purpose. More recently, the two regiments have been brought back to semilife by the injection of North Vietnamese replacements. But their quality can still be judged from the fact that the main effort by one of them — a battalion-sized surprise attack — was successfully repelled by a single company of the rag-tag regional force militia.

As for the Seventh North Vietnamese Division, over on the Laos border, it is even more a division in name only than the Fifth VC, and again because of the effects of general attrition. It has one combat-ready regiment, but its main function is now to serve as a replacement depot through which infiltrating North Vietnamese troops are staged to fill gaps in the ranks of other units.

The reason for all this can be swiftly discerned if one turns to the Ninth VC Division, once a ferociously tough-fighting outfit wholly manned by southerners. As early as last August, the Ninth had suffered so badly, and local recruitment had declined so gravely, that most of the battalions had to be filled up to half their strength with northern soldiers.

In consequence, the "Cedar Falls" documents bristle with angry complaints of north-south friction in the Ninth VC Division. More recently, an en-

RUSSELL BAKER

Peacock Feathers

WASHINGTON — The effort begun in New York this week to persuade men to wear skirts is not quite as silly as its instigators probably think it is. The need for a sensible new style in men's clothing is acute, and the skirt, despite many deficiencies, is still a slight improvement upon trousers.

It is hard to conceive of a less practical garment than men's trousers. The belt cuffs with their lint, lost coins and cigar ash add unnecessary weight to the weight their owner must carry about.

When sat down in-and who, these days, drives or pads an expensive account standing up? They betray their utter incapacity to accommodate the human knee, leaving their wearer, when he stands up, looking as if he had watermelons on his kneecaps and accords behind.

Because of their ridiculous length, they are constantly, in inclement weather, soaked by water cascading down the raincoat so that their wearer, arriving in a dry salon, looks as if he had come fresh from wading in a bathtub.

Their ridiculous pockets invite holes through which $10 bills, precious keys and papers bearing important telephone numbers are fished into suitcases.

Trousers have, in almost every sense, outlived their day, and although a 21st century looming on the horizon it is past time for the fashion arts to rid man of these nineteenth-century relics and clothe him in something appropriate to the age.

Unfortunately, in pushing the skirt the fashion industry seems not so much interested in meeting its responsibilities as in indulging its weakness for the kind of joke that makes a cheap headline.

First of all, the skirt confronts its male wearer with the ugly problem of what to wear below the hemline. The New York models who showed the new skirts this week begged the issue by wearing those knee-length ribbed stockings associated with Bermuda shorts.

This advances us not at all, unless we presume that the American male will be amenable to showing up for a three-martini luncheon looking like someone playing hockey from Sarah Lawrence. Nylon hose, the more probable solution (fishnet for evening wear), would lead to nasty raiding and counter-raiding between husband and wife, and the arguments about responsibility for runs might conceivably become as great a menace to marriage stability as toothpaste tube caps.

We need not dilate upon the psychological problems that would lie ahead for the typical male with fat knees or scrawny shanks when dictators of the male fashion industry order him to adopt thigh slits or miniskirts. The skirt simply will not do.

Before it goes back to the drawing board, the men's fashion industry must grasp the nature of the late twentieth-century environment for which it is dressing the male. It is a world in which man moves sitting down—in cars, in airplanes or at a desk (where, of course, he is getting ahead in the world).

He is getting ahead in the world. The esthetically correct solution to clothing him from knees to feet: namely, wheels. Maintaining the consistency of this philosophical approach to costume, the designers might outfit the seated traveler from back of the knees to shoulders in a chair made of such highly flexible fabric that it will conform readily to his figure, standing or sitting. In the standing position, the chair legs would stick straight out behind him, thus affording at least symbolic defense against the characteristic fear of modern man, the back-patter with knife in hand.

In front, from waist to knees, he might wear a somewhat elongated briefcase. This would not only symbolize appropriately the nature of modern man's doom, but would also solve the problem of where to put $10 bills, precious keys and papers bearing important telephone numbers.

Men's shirts as we know them are absolutely pointless. Here is a grand opportunity to help man deal with the endemic identity crisis. The solution is a sheathing, from neck to waist, custom-woven of plastic cards. These might be loosely stitched together to allow the sheathing to conform to the body contour. Aside from each man's stock of credit cards, proudly draped across the pectorals for easy reference, the ensemble might include such plastic evidence of the wearer's importance as cards reading, "Triple A in Dun & Bradstreet," "My telephone number is unlisted," "Have dined with Robert Kennedy," etc.

The necktie, of course, is the crudest garment of all, but since it serves an important esthetic function — concealing the Adam's apple — it will have to stay. It can, however, be turned around and worn down the back, thus relieving man at last of that ancient sartorial curse-necktie gravy stains.

ART BUCHWALD

'Goodby, Chet'

WASHINGTON — They thought it could never happen — the fact that Chet Huntley would have nobody to say "good night" to. But it did and it's shaken the foundation of the American home. Couples all over the United States are now saying to each other, "If it happened to Huntley and Brinkley, it could happen to us."

It can now be revealed what happened that fateful Thursday when Chet and David had their last meeting.

"David, have a drink," said Chet nervously. "I have something to tell you."

"What is it, Chet?" David asked innocently, mixing himself a martini.

"I've fallen in love with another union."

"But how could you, Chet, after all these years?" David said, spilling his drink and trying not to let his voice shake.

"It wasn't my fault," Chet protested. "It just happened overnight. I woke up one morning and suddenly I realized I hated AFTRA."

Tears rose in David's eyes. "So all those evenings you were saying 'good night' to me, you were playing around with another union."

"I wasn't playing around with another union. I really meant it when I said 'good night' to you. But let's face it, David, we have been drifting apart. You're always in Washington. I'm always in New York. I'm interested in the Vietnam war. You're interested in Lyndon Baines Johnson. We have nothing in common any more. Why don't we behave like grownups about this? Surely we can reach an amicable settlement and still be friends."

"You're so callous about it," David said. "Doesn't 10 years of being together mean anything to you?"

"It means a lot, David. But this new union means more to me."

"What can a new union give you that AFTRA can't?" Chet replied. "Security, a home of our own. I want to be appreciated for myself. I can't stand this life of running around with singers and chorus girls and comedians. I want a union just for us, David. Can't I make you understand?"

"Maybe I want all those things, too, Chet. But we've got to think of others besides ourselves: Bob Hope, Johnny Carson, Ed Sullivan and Lassie."

"Stop being so emotional about it, David. These things happen every day. Anyway, it's too late to discuss it. I'm going to see my lawyer in the morning."

"Who gets custody of Nancy Dickerson?" David asked.

"You do. I'm taking Frank McGee, Ray Scherer and Floyd Kalher. You can have Sander Vanocur and Roy McNeil. Of course, you may have visiting rights on week ends."

"You had it planned all the time," David cried. "I gave you the best years of my life. The best stories, too. And all the time you were plotting behind my back to start another union. Well, you're not going to get away with this, Chet. I'm getting a lawyer, too. And remember this, when our friends start asking what happened. You walked out on me."

"On the contrary," Chet said, "you walked out on me."

"I have a good mind to strike you," David said.

"That wouldn't make me change my mind, David. I won't honor a strike."

"Well, I guess this is goodbye, then."

"I guess it is."

"Goodbye, Chet."

"Goodbye, David."

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's fiscal affairs take the spotlight today as Governor Shafer formally unveils his billion-dollar-plus budget to Pennsylvania's legislative gentry — but lost in the backwash is the fact that there is one state fiscal office that has been concerned with Pennsylvania's fiscal affairs longer than the office of Governor Shafer.

That "forgotten" office is that of State Auditor General.

The general concept, of course, is that the Governor is the Number One personage in the State — which he is indeed. However it is also assumed that because of this "ranking," his office naturally was the first of contemporary statewide offices to be established.

In actuality this isn't the case at all.

Pennsylvania's first Governor — Thomas Mifflin — started his term in 1790.

Pennsylvania's first State Treasurer — David Rittenhouse — began his term in 1777.

It is perhaps interesting to note too that from 1777 to 1873 Pennsylvania's State Treasurer was not elected by the people of the state at large — as at present — but was elected by the State Legislature.

With adoption of the Constitution of 1874 this was changed to the present form of election by the voters of the state as a whole.

The point in all this is that the post of State Treasurer, currently held by Thomas Z. Minehart (who also doubles as Democratic State Chairman) is one of greater historical impact than the governorship itself, a post you rarely hear about today while the "younger" office of Governor is a daily byword — witness today's (fiscal) events!

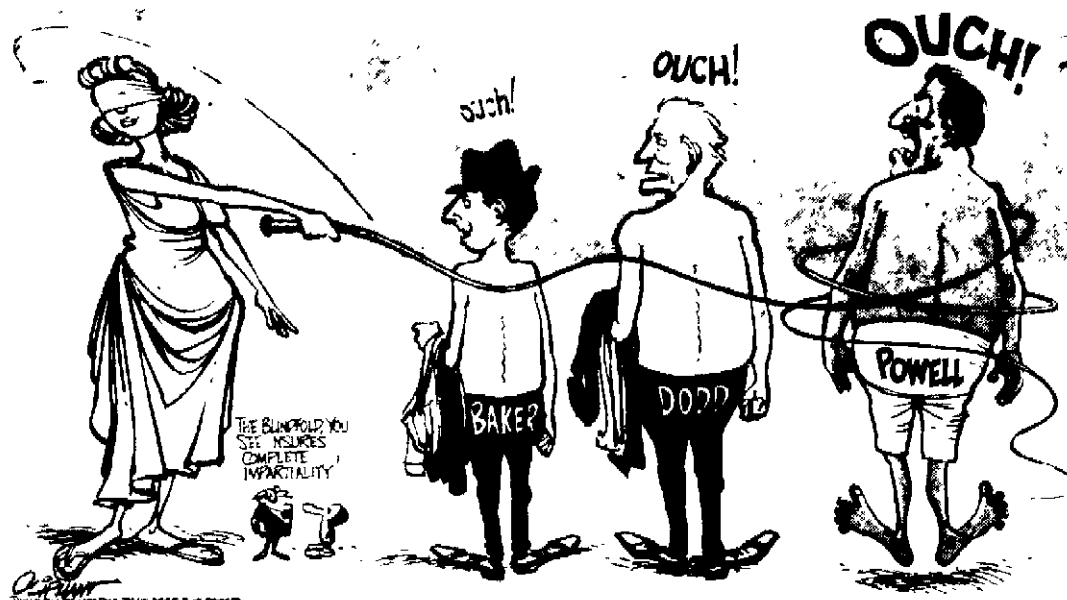

Within the executive branch of Pennsylvania's State Government, the post is one of five filled by statewide voting, the others being Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of Internal Affairs and State Auditor General.

The latter post — that of State Auditor General — is another state fiscal office well worth noting on this particular fiscal day, a post currently filled by (Democrat) Mrs. Grace Sloan.

This post too is somewhat of an historical one, although in this case it doesn't pre-date the Governor.

Pennsylvania's first State Auditor General — a gent by name of George Bryan — didn't assume office until May 2, 1809,

History Helps Explain Adam

WASHINGTON — To understand the full tragedy of Adam Clayton Powell as he faces reelection in Harlem today, you have to know the story of his father.

It was his father's Baptist Church in Harlem that Adam Junior inherited, and Adam Senior talks glowingly of his son in his autobiography, "Against the Tide."

Certainly the Powells, both father and son, rose to the top against the tide. It's important to consider this, and their background, as Congress passes judgment on Adam and whether he should be seated again.

From the grandson of a slave to the chairmanship of one of the most important committees of Congress is a long way to come in half a century. Achievement, however, also merits responsibility.

Adam Senior was born in Franklin County, Va., 25 days after Lee surrendered to Grant at Appomattox. He never knew his father. His mother was part Indian and her father German. "My maternal grandmother," wrote Adam Sr., "was very fond of eating rats. She was a great hunter of small game. My earliest recollections were of direst poverty. The wealth of the South had been destroyed by the Civil War and both white and poor colored suffered together."

"There was not a white man within twelve miles of our cabin who'd pay a wage of 50 cents a day or a white woman able to pay more than 25 cents for a day's washing."

"Mr. Albert Martin rented us a one-room log cabin with about five acres of land for $1 a month. Everything we could raise on these five acres belonged to our family. Our big job was to raise this $1 every month for rent and to pay for a yoke of oxen which we had bought on the installment plan."

"It required about six years to pay for these oxen. Old Buck and Bill died about a year after our last installment was met, and we had shoes made from their hides. It was the first time the whole family had new shoes at one time. Many a time on a frosty morning when the ground was covered with snow, I made the cow get up so I could warm my feet on the ground where she had lain for the night."

"We slept, bathed, cooked, ate and entertained in one room. Breakfast was served religiously at 6 a. m. I recall one year when our crops were so poor that both our corn and wheat were exhausted in the month of April, and we lived on dried apples and black-eyed peas for six weeks until the new crop matured. Even to this day the smell of dried apples nauseates me."

"The first big day in my life was October 1, 1871. On that day I discarded my old, torn shirt, put on a pair of trousers woven by my grandmother, and started to school. The school was five miles from our cabin and was taught by a white man named Jake Bowles. That morning, when I entered the log schoolhouse, I could not name a single letter. The alphabet looked to me like a crossword puzzle. When school dismissed that evening, I could name the twenty-six letters which make the English language. The next day I said them backwards."

Adam Sr. tells in detail how the family moved to West Virginia, how he worked in the coal mines making $80 to $100 a month. "But every dollar of this and all I could borrow," he added, "was sacrificed to the demon of gambling which possessed me, soul and body. On March 1, 1885, I had lost all my wages, $40 of borrowed money and my overcoat. Aside from my dirty mining clothes, my wardrobe had been reduced to a pair of cheap trousers and a red sweater."

"Something happened that week stranger than any piece of fiction I ever read. The saloons and the gambling dens were deserted Saturday night, and people walked the streets in hushed silence. I learned that all the drifting Christians, who were the main supporters of the Churches on Friday night. Each of these two churches had begun a week of prayer on January 1 that had continued nightly for two months. . . . It seems as if some unseen messenger had slipped into every home, hut, dive, den and whispered 'something is going to happen at the churches. Come out and witness it for yourself.' . . ."

"Five preachers came out of that revival, and this writer was one of them."

However, Adam's father still experienced plenty of ups and downs. He went to Howard University Law School in Washington in 1887 as a step toward being elected to Congress, but never got to Congress because "first, I overrated myself, and secondly, I took the wrong path." He began preaching. He preached in churches in Philadelphia, New Haven and finally the Abyssinian Church in New York where he became one of the greatest pastors of his day.

"If I had the privilege of selecting the race into which I wanted to be born and to work," wrote Adam Sr., "I would select the race in which I was born and in which I have lived and worked, for this race needs me more than any other race."

His son Adam rose to even greater heights in the government of the United States and did more to break the handcuffs of the Negro than any other man of his race — until he fell by the wayside. But just as Adam Sr. put liquor and women aside in the coal-mining towns of West Virginia, so it may be possible for Adam Jr. to do likewise.

These are things which Congress should remember. Certainly Adam's sins were not as great as those of a certain Senator from Connecticut or a certain anti-Negro Congressman from South Carolina. What the House of Representatives will have to decide when Adam Jr. stands before its bar seeking admission again is whether there shall be one sauce for the white goose from Connecticut, another sauce for the black gander from Harlem.

SYLVIA PORTER

Food Price Pinch

If you buy a frozen turkey dinner in a grocery store today, you'll pay 59 cents per serving. If you prepare this dinner from scratch in your own kitchen, the cost will be only 26 cents per serving, a saving of $1.05 for a family of five on this one course.

If you serve your family a store-bought pizza pie, it will cost you 39 cents per serving, vs. about 20 cents if you put the ingredients together yourself. Or if you serve prepared hash brown potatoes, it'll cost nearly 7 cents per serving vs. less than 4 cents if you hash them at home. And the cost of one slice of apple pie bought in a store or baked at home is 8 cents vs. 6 cents.

Your willingness to pay extra for expensive maid service built into the foods you buy is a well-known force behind rising food prices, but you persist in underestimating how much your own demands for convenience foods are adding to your own food budgets. As an illustration, you don't have to buy the ready-made pizza at almost twice the price of making the pie at home, but you want to and you do.

As you wheel your cart through today's fantastic selection of supermarket foods, you are increasingly apt to choose the package of frozen beans with butter already added, the box of breakfast cereal coated with sugar or mixed with freeze-dried fruit over the box of plain cereal, the just-add-milk pan-cake mix over the half dozen separate ingredients which go into pancakes, the ready-made cocktail dip over the home-made fixings suggested by your cook book.

In less than a decade, the Department of Agriculture calculates, U. S. per capita consumption of fresh fruit has dropped 12 per cent, while our consumption of canned fruit has jumped 2 per cent. Our consumption of frozen vegetables has climbed 32 per cent, while our consumption of fresh vegetables has dropped 5 per cent. Most dramatically, our purchases of frozen prepared potatoes have skyrocketed 419 per cent as against a rise of only 10 per cent in our overall consumption of potatoes.

And the great technological advances in this area in recent years will be dwarfed by the advances to come. Consider these predictions of the kinds of convenience foods to come by Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman:

- + + Frozen lettuce and salad mixes — with all the flavor and texture of today's fresh lettuce preserved at very low temperatures;

- + + Instant sandwich mixes;
- + + Sheets of freeze-dried catsup, gravy, syrup, relish which can be stored indefinitely at room temperature in a cupboard and instantly reconstituted when needed;
- + + Meat "tailor-produced" for the exact fat content desired by the individual consumer;

- + + Milk with whatever butterfat content a family wants to meet its own dietary needs;
- + + Square tomatoes bred especially by plant geneticists to reduce damage in shipping;

- + + A wide range of new food flavors which could, for example, make inexpensive soybeans taste like steak.
- If you're a typical food shopper (and in this context I know I am), you'll eagerly greet each advance in convenience foods and you'll pay whatever extra pennies the advance demands. If you're also typical (and in this context I know I am not), you'll then complain that your food costs keep going up and you'll blame everybody for this except yourself.

The Youngsville fans who had to leave Saturday night's banquet early missed a real treat. After the round of speeches was completed, the athletes introduced, etc., Mercer basketball coach John Swogger commented on films of the Class B Champion Mustangs in the 1967 final against Montrose.

It was an eye-opener. We saw very few Class A teams that could have stayed with Mercer this year.

The Mustangs' hustle was one of the easily recognizable ingredients in their success, especially on defense. While their offense was not particularly spectacular, their fast break was a thing of beauty, reminding us of the way the pros clear the ball off the boards and get it down court.

Swogger, of course, revealed the secret behind two straight titles, practice and dedication. Off hand, we can't think of a single local athlete who spends 25-30 hours a week year around on one sport. The cross country team has come closest to that kind of hard work and it paid off in a PIAA State Championship.

And we had forgotten how good the 1966 Eagle football team had been until Toby Shea ran a couple reels of selected plays from half a dozen games.

During the program, the former Dragon grid star said that he could not single out any particular players for praise, and rightly so, only a team effort can produce the record that the Red and White has compiled over the past two seasons.

Swogger and Jim Houston are both fine speakers and both discussed whatever came to mind, not relying on notes to deliver a pat speech. Houston's comments on the Browns were interesting because they gave an insight to their failure to repeat as Eastern Division champs. He hinted that the friction that developed in the deep secondary was instrumental in a couple losses.

Surprisingly, he praised Jim Brown as a dedicated ballplayer. Many of the Browns shy away from the subject because the great fullback was such a controversial figure in his last few years. He predicted that Brown would find as much success in his acting career as he had earned on the gridiron.

It didn't come up, but the story we have always enjoyed centered around Brown's reputed dislike of blocking. He was, so the story goes, an expert at the "lookout" block that's where—as the defensive end goes rushing by him—he turns and yells to quarterback Ryun, "Lookout Frank!"

A Step Forward

We were glad to learn that the Warren Beverage Baseball Club had been admitted to the Glenwood League, for it should prove a point that we've been trying to make for the past two years—that Beverage is the finest non-pro team in the state.

No one would take us seriously when the Beveragemen romped through the McKean-Elk loop, always pointing to the lack of competition and even two NBC titles failed to convince some people.

Emmons Jones made the move knowing that his team is not going to run up any 25-0 record this season, but he feels that by playing the best competition available, the Beveragemen will be more able to be at their best when tournament time rolls around.

Jones is sticking with most of the same personnel that won the title for him last year, including good, old reliable Jim Hannan, who we failed to include in Monday's article at third base.

Adding Kenny Martin can't help but strengthen the team. It gives Beverage another top bat in an already power-laden lineup and his play at second base will tighten up the infield.

We don't have much of a line on the new hurlers, Ron Kitchon and Bill Harper, but if they can twirl with the likes of Dick Lindamer, Roy Swanson and Ken Magowan, Beverage will be tough to beat. Jones has revealed that the team will be playing four or five games a week, making the increased staff necessary and he plans on throwing them in regular rotation. Magowan will probably be in the outfield when not taking his turn on the mound and Steve Kudlock can be counted on on relief duty.

In addition, to the league contests, Jones has lined up three teams from the Greater Pittsburgh League, the Simon-Pure club from Buffalo and a team from Rochester, N.Y. for exhibitions.

The team will play its home games here, probably doubleheaders with each club in the loop, and will expect not to have to make the trip to Erie more than once a week.

We're looking forward to another interesting summer and hope you can get out and see our State Champions in action.

STEELE SHAVINGS — We learned over the weekend that Bob Brabender, former PIAA State Champion, had resigned his position as head wrestling coach at Erie Strong Vincent High School. It's regrettable because some of the color will go out of the sport, but then there's always brother Bill.

Dragon Thinclads on Eagle Cinders Today

Warren Has Veterans, Good Sophs

With a lot of veterans and some good sophomores sprinkled through the lineup, the Warren Dragons seemingly will field a track and field team that might be able to retain the District 10 laurels they won last year.

Coach Loyal Briggs announced that he would be assisted by Andy Randas this year. Last year's assistant, John Shaw, is on a leave of absence at Ohio University. Randas formerly coached Beatty Junior High School. Joe Giordano will take over the reins at Beatty.

This year's team will be missing Sandy Matthews, Bud Erickson, Al Conklin, Mike Spinney and Tim Ristau, just to name a few. Most of their spots will be filled capably.

In the 100 and 220 yard dashes, Briggs said that he would probably use a pair of sophomores. Joe Cauley and Roger Slocum were always near the top for Beatty last year. Cauley holds the junior high sprint record.

Also a possibility in the 220 is junior Harry Spackman. Briggs said that he is most likely to run in the 440.

Tim Donovan, a good quarter-miler last year, is back again. He is behind the other members of the team as far as practice is concerned because of recent bouts with mononucleosis and the flu. Besides Spackman, Dan O'Neill will serve as a strong back-up man in the event.

Dragon strength begins to show in the 880 where lettermen Ray Lowe and Pan Fanaritis lead the way. There is a good group of sophomores backing them up.

A pair of strong milers are also back for the Dragons, Dave Cobb, a member of last year's team, and Ed Christensen, a senior who set the District 10 record for the mile as a sophomore, will return to the cinders this season.

Possibly the strongest single event for the Blue and White will be the two-mile run. Leading the way will be Jim Oriole, Bill Shaffer and Bill Maxwell. All ran well last year. They were also instrumental in bringing Warren a State Championship in cross country.

Others who might run the event are Allen Poust, Joe McCoy and a pair of transfer students. Gerald Grygo from Erie East and Steve Zwald of Ridgway have looked good in practice.

Briggs said that the lineups for the relays are indefinite at the present time. He said that they will be made up of some veterans and some underclassmen.

In the hurdles the Dragon mentor has a fine group to divide between the high and low hurdles. Veterans back are Jim Belchner, Mike Hackett and Marc Segal. They will be joined by Rick Brewster, Rick Nassman, Craig White and sophomore Chris Lytle.

Briggs has three good high jumpers returning. Leading the way will be John Zawacki. Nassman and Hackett are capable men in the event. Also figuring to compete in the event is transferee Zwald.

In the long and triple jumps the Dragons will be counting mostly on Belchner. Jim Cruickshank and Zawacki also do well in the event. There is a long list of underclassmen in the event including the record holder from Beatty, Mark Krumm.

Doing the pole vaulting will be Nassman, Steve Kaiser and Steve Beyer. The latter was the best of the three last year.

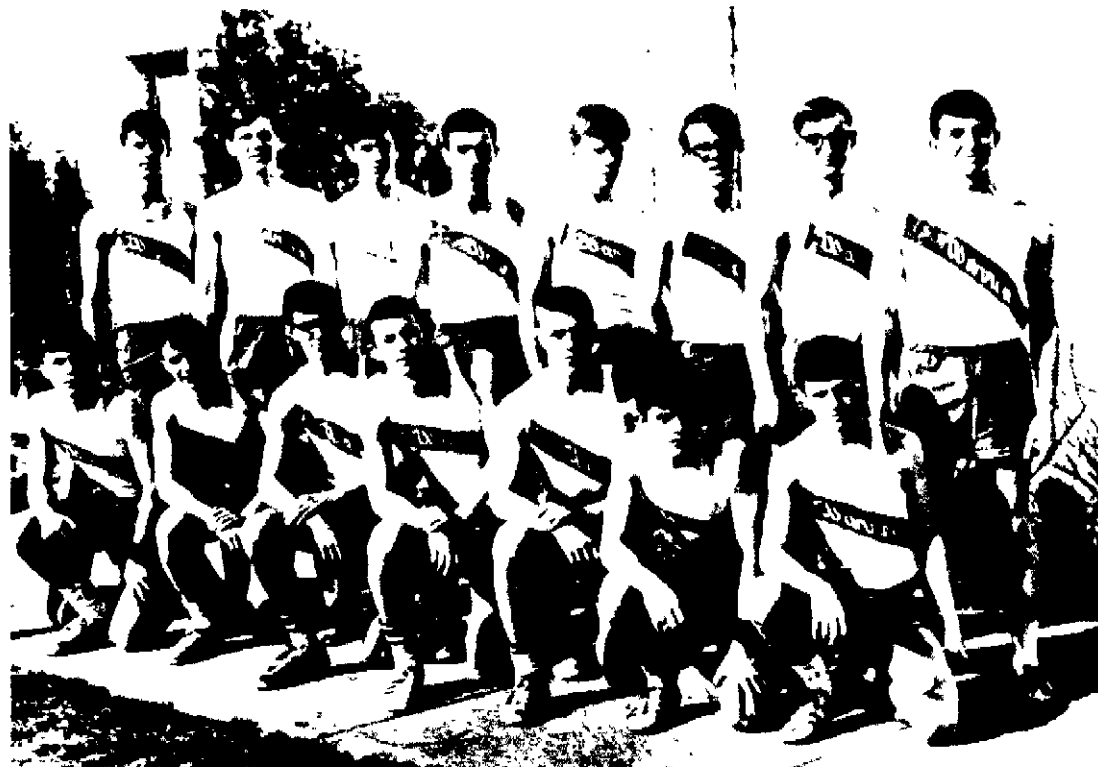

The field events were the ones hit hardest by graduation. The shot put seems to be the strongest of the three events with junior Darrell Pusateri coming along real well. Bob Thompson, number four man last year has moved into the number two slot.

In the discus Mike Bleech has some experience. He'll probably be backed up by Pusateri. The javelin will be put in the hands of Jeff Barch and Dan Stimmel. These two threw in the shadow of Spinney and Ristau last year.

The schedule for the Dragons is as follows:

Dragons Schedule

April 11 at Youngsville
15 at Mansfield Relays
18 Erie Cathedral Prep and Kane
21 at Titusville
25 Corry
28 Oil City
May 2 Meadville

HOST FIFTH PLAYOFF GAME TONIGHT

76ers Have Another Shot At Ending Celtics' Reign

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia gets a second chance tonight to knock the champion Boston Celtics out of the National Basketball Association playoffs—and the 76ers hope they won't need a third or fourth try.

The 76ers just missed in Boston Sunday, losing 121-117, but a miss, in the old cliché is as good as a mile.

Now leading 3-1 in the best-of-7 Eastern finals coach Alex Hannum expects his club to end the Celts' long reign before another capacity crowd of about 13,000 at Convention Hall.

Hal Greer, the sharpshooting Philadelphia guard, admitted the 76ers wanted to win the clincher at Boston, "but now we have to do it at home—and that will give us the incentive, to win before the home people."

Boston has won the NBA championship for the past eight years. Last year Philadelphia won the Eastern Division crown but were knocked out of the playoffs by the Celtics—and the 76ers have been waiting a year to get even.

When Philadelphia knocked off Boston last Wednesday here for its third straight playoff victory the record crowd of 13,009 chanted derisively, "Boston is dead, Boston is dead."

Bill Russell, the Celtics' player-coach, seemed to ignore the outburst but promised his team would show up for the next game.

And after Boston ended the 76er victory string, the Celtics fans roared, "We're not dead."

Maybe tonight, says Hannum.

Rangers Down, 2-0, But Not Giving Up

NEW YORK (AP) — "We didn't play 70 games during the season and two more in the playoffs just to give up without a fight," Emile Francis, general manager-coach of the New York Rangers, said determinedly yesterday.

The Rangers practiced for an hour on Madison Square Garden ice, where they face the streaking Montreal Canadiens in the third game of the Stanley Cup semifinal series tonight. The fourth game will also be played.

Hawks Must Win Tonite At Toronto

TORONTO (AP) — "They got what they wanted in Chicago and now we have to get one in Toronto. It's as simple as that," said Coach Billy Reay of the Chicago Black Hawks yesterday.

The Hawks, champions of the National Hockey League, dropped a 3-1 decision Sunday night in Chicago enabling the Maple Leafs to tie the best-of-7 Stanley Cup semifinal series of one game each. Chicago won the first game 5-2.

More important is the fact that the Leafs, who failed to win a single game in Chicago during the regular season, can put the Hawks at a serious disadvantage with victories in Toronto tonight and Thursday.

Toronto Coach Punch Imlach, fully aware that Chicago must win at least one game in Toronto to if the Hawks hope to make the finals, refused to take the role of favorite.

"I would still say we're the underdogs," said Imlach. "They're supposed to be the best team. They've got practically everyone on the All-Star team."

"In fact it seems as if every team in the league will have somebody on the All-Star team except us," said Imlach. "Well, that's okay with me as long as we win the games."

Imlach had the Leafs work out yesterday while Coach Billy Reay rested the Black Hawks. "They'll see plenty of action with games coming up Tuesday, Thursday and in Chicago Saturday afternoon," said Reay.

With the Hawks' injured corps of Bobby Hull, Doug Mohns and Chico Maki showing improvement, Reay welcomes the rapid fire schedule coming up on the presumption that the heavy work will be tougher on the older Leafs than the younger Hawks.

ed in New York on Thursday night.

The Canadiens, unbeaten in 13 games including victories in each of the last eight, beat the Rangers 6-4 and 3-1 in the first two games of the best-of-7 set in the Montreal Forum.

"Of course, we would have liked to have won at least one of the games up there, but both were tossups almost to the end," Francis said. "We knew before the series started that we would have to win the third and fourth games here in order to win the series. So, that situation hasn't changed."

Orland Kurtenbach, New York's veteran center, has a pulled muscle in his right leg and did not work out yesterday. There is a chance he will play tonight. If not, Jean Ratelle will replace him on a line with Rod Gilbert on right wing and Vic Hadfield on the left.

Bernie Geoffrion, the former Canadian who scored 17 regular season goals plus one in each of the two playoff games, will be spotted at right wing and on the power play.

"Four of our five goals have been on the power play," Francis pointed out. "This has been one of our strong points. We must improve on our forechecking, though."

Meanwhile, the Canadiens practiced at the Forum and were not scheduled to arrive in New York until this morning. Jacques Laperriere, a defenseman sidelined for the second game with a knee injury, is expected to be ready for game No. 3.

Neither Head Coach Predicting Triumph

Weather permitting, and both teams showing up, the Youngsville Eagles and Warren Dragon track teams will meet on the Eagles cinders at 4 p.m. today.

The Eagles have already won a meet and were not even forced to run. They took a forfeit decision from Harborcreek last Friday when the Huskies failed to show for a scheduled appearance.

This will be the opening meet of the season for the District 10, Class A champion Dragons. Youngsville is the 10-B titleholder.

Both coaches aired views of pessimism last night. Coach Loyal Briggs of the Dragons said that it is "hard to tell how we are." The Dragons haven't been able to run time trials because of the condition of their track. Briggs said he would use today to experiment and try to fit the pieces together.

Eagle mentor, Toby Shea, who ran his track under Briggs while at Warren High School, said that a lack of depth would hurt his team. Shea said that he would be "running into stiff competition."

Events to watch will be the 440, 880, two mile relay and the shot put. Both teams seem to be exceptionally strong in these events.

The 440 will feature Dragon Danny O'Neil against speedy Glenn Collins. Tim Donovan, a top quarter miler last year, has been moved at least temporarily to the 100 and 220.

Milt Johnson and Bobby Long of the Eagles will run against a terrifically improved Pan Fanaritis and Ray Lowe in the half mile. This could be a blanket finish among the four fleet runners.

Although neither team is set on just who is going to run in the two-mile relay both coaches have conceded that it will be a fast event.

Putting the shot will be Ron Knapp of Youngsville and Darrell Pusateri of the Dragons.

Knapp currently holds the upper hand but coach Shea conceded that the event could go either way.

Briggs said that the Dragons strength seems to lay in the jumping events where John Zawacki and Jim Belchner show their talents.

The Eagles are strong in the field events, the javelin in particular with Bruce Fitzgerald leading the way.

Warren should also be strong in the two-mile run, where they have most of the cross country team that won the 1967 PIAA state championship. Jim Oriole, Bill Shaffer and Larry Maxwell lead the way. Top man on the cross country team, Dave Cobb, will run in the mile event.

Fans Asked To Ante Up For Broncs

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Pro football fans in Denver are being asked to ante up $1.8 million to keep the Broncos of the American Football League here.

The public fund drive to pay off a stadium mortgage "must show reasonable progress" before the AFL meetings in June, said Larry Varnell, a bank official heading the non-profit corporation directing the campaign.

Empire Sports, Inc., owner of the Broncos is obligated for the mortgage. Varnell said the Broncos are the only team in pro football owning its own stadium.

Gerry and Allan Phipps, brothers who acquired virtually sole ownership of Empire Sports two years ago, also fell heir to the mortgage.

Gerry Phipps said, "If this drive progresses the way we hope and believe it will, the Broncos will stay in Denver."

Archers Hold Elections, Set Schedule for Season

The Warren Archery Club held the election of officers and set up their schedule for the coming year at a meeting held Sunday night.

President of the league is John Culver while Charles Prigent acts as vice president. Secretary-treasurer is Estelle Farr. Ken Simmons will be the delegate with Richard Ristau acting as the assistant. George Mostert will be the target captain. His aids will be Dave Carlson and Jeff Nugent.

Four league matches in the Penn - York Archery Association have been scheduled. They are as follows:

April 23, Skyline at Jamestown; May 7, Valley Bowhunters at Gerry; May 21, Warren Archery Club; June 4, Youngsville Archery Club.

The following trophy shoots have also been planned: June 25, Valley Bowhunters—14 hunters and 14 animal rounds; July 16, Warren Archery Club—14 hunter and 14 field rounds; July 30, Skyline—28 hunter rounds; August 13, Youngsville—28 field rounds.

A work bee has been planned for tonight at 6 p.m. On Sunday there will be a Club Open Shoot at 1 p.m.

Team shoots are being scheduled for Tuesday evenings with Jim English and Chuck Prigent working out details possibly on a handicap basis.

Plans are being made to accept membership applications for a period of thirty days.

Phils Buy First Sacker Francona from Redbirds

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies, without a reliable first baseman since Bill White injured his foot during the winter, announced yesterday that they have purchased journeyman first baseman Tito Francona from the St. Louis Cardinals.

The amount of money involved in the straight cash deal was not disclosed by the Phillies, who have been using former second baseman Tony Taylor at first base all spring.

The Phillies said that to make room for the left-handed hitter, reliever Bill Wilson was being sent outright to their San Diego farm team in the Pacific Coast League.

Stottlemire Zips Nats On 2-Hitter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The New York Yankees, showing signs of their famous past, exploded for seven runs in the third inning and right-hander Mel Stottlemire pitched a two-hitter yesterday as the Bronx Bombers crushed the Senators 8-0 in the 1967 American League opener before President Johnson.

Stottlemire, a 20-game loser last year, allowed only an infield single by Cap Peterson before Fred Valentine led off the ninth with a ground single to right field.

Before Valentine's hit, Stottlemire also allowed only one ball out of the infield, a fly by Ken McMullen to Bill Robinson in right. The Yankee hurler struck out six and walked two.

The Yankees, who finished in the cellar last season, teed off early on Washington's starting pitcher, Pete Richert, who was 14-14 during 1966.

Tom Tresh doubled down the third base line in the third and rookie Bill Robinson, acquired from Atlanta in a trade for Clete Boyer during the off-season, hit the first homer of the season some 380 feet into the left-center field Yankee bullpen.

Mantle, however, aggravated a leg muscle he injured March 22 and was taken out of the game.

Elston Howard scored Pepitone on a single to right, and Charlie Smith beat out a hit to third baseman McMullen.

After Horace Clarke flied to center, John Kennedy, acquired from the Los Angeles Dodgers, doubled down the right field line, scoring Howard and Smith.

Stottlemire singled off relief pitcher Darold Knowles to score Kennedy.

In the seventh inning, Elston Howard hit his first home run. President Johnson, who had not announced his plans, came to the ballpark and threw out three opening day pitches rather than the usual one.

Johnson paid little attention to the action on the field as he spent most of his time talking with the senators in his box, Margaret Chase Smith and Edmund Muskie of Maine and John Pastore of Rhode Island.

He also did a little eating: Two hot dogs, some popcorn, an ice cream sandwich and some peanuts.

The President stuck it out for five innings and then left the park.

The game kept his record intact—he still hasn't been a winning pitcher in the three times he has opened the season.

Baltimore and Pittsburgh start the job of living up to the pre-season pennant picks today as the big league teams complete their two-day opening program.

If the weatherman is kind from coast to coast, a total of about 245,000 will watch today's program of four day games and four night games.

Hank Bauer's Orioles, who have been shouting, "We're No. 1" since they knocked off the Dodgers in four straight, will send Dave McNally, their World Series opener, against Jim Kaat, Minnesota's 25-game winner, in an afternoon game at Baltimore.

The Orioles have a set lineup, and the Twins' most important addition, pitcher Dean Chance, isn't slated to see action. About 40,000 are expected.

Pittsburgh also will play a day game in New York where the 1967 breed of Mets' fans are due to turn out 45,000 strong to see the latest addition of the Marvones.

Don Cardwell, an ex-Pirate who was critical of the management for not pitching him more often last year, gets a chance to get even. He will be opposed by Bob Veale, the Pirates' act.

The Bucs have a stand pat line-up plus Maury Wills, but the Mets will have rookie Don Bosch in center, ex-Card Jerry Buchek at second, Bud Harrelson at short, ex-Dodger Tommy Davis in left and ex-outfielder Ron Swoboda on first.

The pitching battle of the opening schedule figures to be

Wrigley Field in Chicago, the only big league park without lights, will find Leo Durocher's Cubs playing hosts to the Phillies.

Jim Bunning is due to work for the Phils who have had their problems filling in for the injured Bill White at first. The Cubs will open with 21-year-old Ken Holtzman, boomed as the next Sandy Koufax. About 20,000 are expected.

Dick Williams of Boston, one of three new managers in the American League, will be at home in Fenway Park where his Red Sox meet the Chicago White Sox before 20,000. Williams will throw Jim Lonborg against John Buzhardt in hopes of getting away fast on opening day.

Dodgers Felled, 6-1 By Cincy's Homers

CINCINNATI (AP) — Vada Pinson and Deron Johnson cracked first inning home runs and Dick Simpson followed with a pinch homer in the seventh to give the Cincinnati Reds a 6-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League opener yesterday.

Big Jim Maloney held the Dodgers to five hits over the first seven innings to earn the victory before a packed crowd of 28,422 in the traditional opener at Crosley Field. After Maloney left for a pinch hitter, Ted Abernathy worked the last two innings.

Pinson and Johnson quickly jumped on Dodger starter Bob Miller for homers to give the Reds all they needed. Both blows ended up in the right-field bleachers.

Pinson picked on a 2-1 pitch, and one out later, Johnson blasted another Miller pitch into the stands. Miller, moved from the bullpen to take over the retired Sandy Koufax's spot in the starting rotation, gave up five home runs in all of 1966.

Miller was taken out in the fifth inning for a pinch hitter, and his reliever, Ron Perranoski, gave up the homer to Simpson in the seventh.

The Reds got to Miller for two more hits and another run in the second inning, with Maloney aiding his own cause. Catcher John Edwards singled, went to third on a single by Maloney and scored on Tommy Harper's fly ball to center.

Cincinnati picked up its final two runs off Phil Regan in the eighth on a walk to Pete Rose, a single by Johnson, a sacrifice fly by Tony Perez and a double by Leo Cardenas.

Maloney was not his usual overpowering self but he had enough to stymie the Dodgers. He struck out only one man, far off his normal average.

The Dodgers, whose lack of hitting was a factor in last year's World Series, finally broke through in the fifth inning.

Catcher John Roseboro lashed a one-out double to left center and scored on Gene Michel's bloop single over shortstop.

ON 125th ANNIVERSARY

Lutheran Church Displays History

Your past may catch-up with you today—in the Fellowship Hall of First Lutheran Church, East st. and Third ave.

Hundreds of items of historical interest are now on display as part of the congregation's 125th anniversary celebration. The public is invited to view the history display today from 2 to 9 p.m.

Among the various items are 60 confirmation pictures starting with the year 1907. Also on display are panels of pictures and programs showing: "sons" of the congregation who have entered the ministry; former pastors and their families; missionaries supported by the congregation since 1938; Sunday school classes, programs, papers—dating back to 1885; Luther League activities and pictures from 1894; scouting awards given to members; constitutions from 1879-1965; reunion and banquet programs; pictures, records and statements from the church, 1849-1919; and choir pictures and programs starting in 1897.

Some featured items include marriage licenses as early as 1852 and baptismal and confirmation certificates from 1856. Old church furnishings and pews from the period 1903-1924 are on display, along with old Bibles, church books, private communion sets and the old German Church Seal.

The historical display has been collected and arranged by Mrs. Sheridan Brown, archivist for the congregation.

Cat Burglar Sought in Corry Area

CORRY — City police here believe a sneak thief may have jumped 20 feet from the roof of the old Climax building on W. Main st., after snatching a woman's purse from a stairway railing in an apartment building.

The thief got away with $1 and a can of hair spray.

At 9:45 p.m. Friday, Mrs. Barbara Oviatt of 405 1/2 W. Main st., appeared at the police station to report that someone had stolen her purse and was at that moment on the roof of the Climax building which adjoins her second floor apartment.

A man with whom Mrs. Oviatt rides to work had remained at the apartment while she went to the police station. Dennis Moisher said the apparent thief, whom he had spotted on the roof, had long hair and was wearing a blue jacket.

Mrs. Oviatt said the incident began when she left the apartment to go to work. She stepped out the door, realized she had forgotten something, put the purse on the railing and went back into the apartment. When she came out a few moments later, the purse was gone.

A search of the area failed to locate the purse thief and police theorized he must have jumped from the building on the north side along the railroad tracks.

104-Years-Old

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Nancy Henderson of Buffalo, who attributes her long life to being Irish and staying busy, observed her 104th birthday yesterday. Mrs. Henderson maintains she is "just as good as new" and that "it's nice to be young." She said the best advice she can give anyone is "to have God ahead of you."

Mrs. Henderson was an Oil City, Pa., resident before coming to Buffalo to live with her daughter four years ago.

20 Cars Derailed In Oil City Wreck

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two Pennsylvania Railroad freight trains derailed yesterday in widely separated areas of Western Pennsylvania. No one was hurt in either wreck.

Twenty-five cars of a 98-car ore train left the tracks in East Vandergrift, Westmoreland County, and struck a house and three parked autos.

In Oil City 20 cars of a 99-car train hauling general merchandise went off the tracks.

Both trains were en route to the Conway yards in Beaver County, the ore train from Altoona and the other from Buffalo, N.Y.

Woman Doctor Changes Mind In Coppolino Murder Trial

By HOMER BIGART

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NAPLES, Fla.—Dr. Carl A. Coppolino, on trial on a charge of having murdered his first wife, heard a woman doctor testify yesterday that she no longer believed his statement, that he awoke to find Mrs. Coppolino lying in her bed dead of a heart attack.

The state of Florida contends that Dr. Coppolino murdered his wife, Carmela Anne, on Aug. 28, 1965, in their home on Longboat Key, off Sarasota, by giving her an injection of a lethal drug.

Over the angry objections of Defense Counsel F. Lee Bailey, Dr. Juliette Karow—a general practitioner of Sarasota, who had signed the death certificate—said it appeared to her that Mrs. Coppolino's body had been moved after her death.

Dr. Karow, the first witness for the state, said she was suspicious because the bed on which Mrs. Coppolino was lying looked unmussed, the covering sheet seemed freshly unfolded and the pillow did not seem slept on.

Also, there was something peculiar about the posture of Mrs. Coppolino, Dr. Karow testified. She said she found Mrs. Coppolino lying on her right side, her right arm beneath her body and both fists were clenched and raised to chest level. But the witness said that the fists were of equal size and that this was curious because the right fist, if it had borne the weight of the body for more than a few minutes before death, should have been red and swollen.

The head, she said, was propped on a pillow. The right portion of the face was discolored, and it should not have been discolored if it had been in that propped position since death, Dr. Karow said.

Apart from Dr. Coppolino, Dr. Karow was the first person to see Mrs. Coppolino after her death.

Dr. Karow said that despite her observation of what she called peculiarities in Mrs. Coppolino's body, she signed a death certificate to the effect that she had died of coronary occlusion.

The prosecutor, Frank Schaub asked: "On what basis?" Dr. Karow replied: "What Carl Coppolino told me, that she suffered chest pains the day before."

The defense had protested the introduction by the prosecution of an amended death certificate on which Dr. Karow changed the cause of death from coronary occlusion to "unknown."

Dr. Karow, who had befriended the Coppolinos when they moved to Sarasota from New Jersey in April, 1965, will be cross-examined by Bailey when the trial resumes today.

Earlier yesterday, after the jury had been sworn in, the prosecution suffered a blow. Judge Lynn Silvertooth ruled that evidence relating to Coppolino's first murder trial in New Jersey last December could not be heard here. On Dec. 15, in Freehold, N.J., Coppolino was acquitted of the charge that he murdered his neighbor, Lt. Col. William E. Farber.

Earth Tremor

Shakes Denver

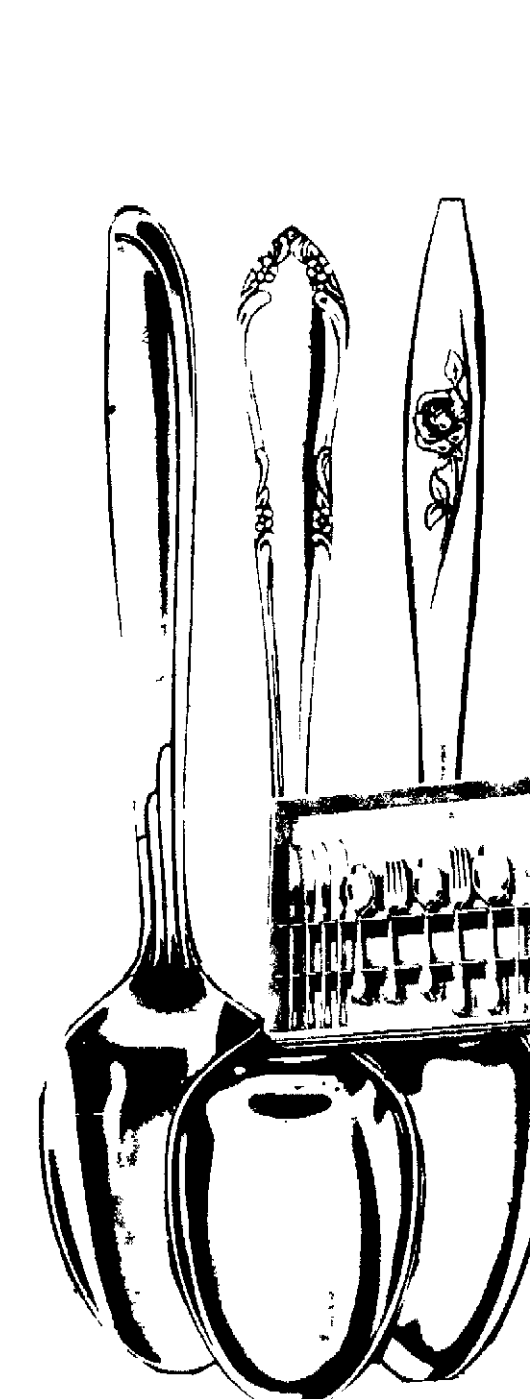

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A sharp earth tremor shook the Denver area at noon yesterday.

Residents told of dishes and windows rattling, light fixtures swaying and chairs moving. There were no immediate reports of damage.

Denver police said the quake lasted about six seconds.

Dr. Maurice Major, seismologist at the Colorado School of Mines west of Denver, said the tremor may have had a magnitude of close to 5 on the Richter scale.

DR. THOMPSON
Dr. Floyd L. Thompson (shown in a 1966 file photo) is the man who headed the investigation into the Apollo Review Board less than 24 hours after a launch pad fire in the space-craft asphyxiated three astronauts. Thompson's Review Board issued its findings April 9th after a 10-week study. They blamed a probable electrical spark resulting from sloppy wiring, and failure to give adequate attention to "mundane" questions of crew safety, for the January 27th Apollo 1 tragedy.

League of Women Voters Calls For Revision of Constitution

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The League of Women Voters of Pennsylvania said yesterday revision of the state constitution "is absolutely a necessity if the state is to meet its responsibilities and solve its problems."

The bipartisan women's organization, which convenes here Tuesday for its 27th biennial convention, issued a statement repeating its support for a constitutional convention. The league said it would launch a "Vote Yes All the Way" campaign for the nine state ballot questions which voters will be asked to decide at the May 16 primary election. "We worked for a constitutional convention in 1953 and 1963, but when that path was blocked we decided the goal was certainly more important than the method, and we supported the article . . . by . . . article amendments," said Mrs. Paul Bourauln of Berwyn, chairman of the league's constitution committee. "If the amendments on the ballot are approved by the voters in May, we will have nine articles revised, leaving four remaining areas to be dealt with by the convention," she added.

About 140 trucking companies in Western New York are involved in a move of Trucking Employers, Inc., in which they halted operations following conflict with the Teamsters Union. In Jamestown major firms closed are Boss-Linco; Akron-Chicago, Inc.; Lyons Transportation Lines; LakeShore Delivery, Inc.; and Red Star Express Lines.

Color and excitement climaxed three weekend high school orchestra performances at Jamestown High School in which five schools participated. The program was conducted by Russell L. Johnson, JHS orchestra director.

Salvation Army National Commander Samuel Hepburn and his wife of New York City will appear in Jamestown to observe the 75th anniversary celebration of the Salvation Army Temple Corps next Saturday and Sunday.

A committee drawing plans for a May 20 Collective Bargaining seminar at Jamestown Community College is meeting today in the Collegiate Center.

Deputy Continuing Investigation Of Camp Robbery

Chief Deputy Sheriff Richard E. Hegerty is continuing an investigation of a camp break-in which was reported at 9:45 a.m. Sunday.

Hegerty said the camp, located in Spring Creek township about two miles east of the Village of Spring Creek, is owned by Raymond Tripp of Garland.

According to the deputy, entry was gained by prying open a window over a sink. Nothing appeared to be missing, he said, but about $60 worth of damage resulted. Plates and glasses were broken and the interior torn up in general.

their errors and fulfill their goal of placing a man on the moon by 1970.

"Whatever our faults," he said, "we are an able-bodied team." Webb, director of The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, testified as the first witness in an investigation by a House Space Subcommittee into the causes and impact of a fire in which three astronauts died last Jan. 27 at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Several members of the panel, citing a highly critical report on the accident issued Sunday by a special review board, suggested that a re-examination of the $23-billion Apollo project was in order.

Webb said, however, that in his opinion the eight-man board had "overstated the case." The report found numerous "deficiencies" in the design, manufacture, engineering and quality control of the mooncraft.

One expert witness told the subcommittee that the astronauts could have escaped from their flaming space capsule if they could have opened the hatch in two or three seconds, venting the oxygen that fed the fire. The Apollo hatch was designed to be opened in 90 seconds.

Another expert testified that the bundle of wires in which the fire apparently started had been "improperly installed" in the spacecraft.

In his opening statement, as the first witness, Webb declared:

"We will take our part of the blame for what we have done or left undone, but I believe this committee can have confidence that NASA and its contractors have the capability to overcome every deficiency required to proceed on and successfully fly the Apollo Saturn system and accomplish its objectives."

The goal of the Apollo program, as established in 1961, is to land astronauts on the moon and return them safely to earth by the end of the decade.

The three astronauts who died in the fire during a ground test at Cape Kennedy, Fla., were to have made the first manned test flight in earth orbit. They were Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom and Lt. Col. Edward H. White II of the Air Force and Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee of the Navy.

After a 10-week investigation the review board, which was appointed by the Space Agency, failed to determine the exact cause of the fire but concluded that it probably was touched off by a faulty electrical wire in the cabin.

Armed with the report, the House subcommittee on NASA oversight began what may be a week-long inquiry of its own. The subcommittee of the committee on science and astronautics is headed by Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex.

The hearings ran all day and into the evening as NASA officials and members of the review board testified.

Today representatives of North American Aviation, Inc., the prime Apollo contractor, are expected to be questioned.

Despite the review board's criticism, Webb said, he had been assured by Dr. Floyd L. Thompson, the board chairman, that the "concepts and the basic design on which the Apollo system is based can be made to work in a reliable manner."

Webb added that Col. Frank Borman of the Air Force, the astronaut member of the board, had said that, if the reported deficiencies were eliminated, tractors have the capability to overcome every deficiency required to proceed on and successfully fly the Apollo Saturn system and accomplish its objectives."

INTERIORS OF APOLLO 1 COMMAND MODULE

These four photos show fire damaged section of the Apollo 1 spacecraft command module interior. As each component was removed from the spacecraft for inspection during the Apollo 204 Review Board investigation, photographs were taken. This step by step photography was used throughout the disassembly of more than 1,000 components. Approximately 5,000 photographs were taken during the ten week investigation. Top left photo shows the lower left hand section of the forward lower equipment bay. This section was directly to the front and below the couch level he would be confident to fly the Apollo.

At this point Webb's speech, always rapid-fire, quickened as he asked emotionally "for whom the Apollo bell tolls?"

It tolls, he said, for "astronauts of the future who may risk or lose their lives. . . it tolls for government and industrial executives and legislators alike."

Dr. Thompson cautioned in his testimony that the report should not be interpreted as "an indictment of the entire manned space flight program and a castigation of the many people associated with that program."

Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, R-Ill., led the attack on Webb and NASA. Rumsfeld has introduced a bill to create an independent review board for the space agency's operations.

Rumsfeld issued a two-page statement saying that the review board had "failed to examine, or at least report on, the fundamental conditions which permitted the accident to occur."

New York Man Confesses Burglaries in Warren

A combined police effort yesterday morning led to the apprehension of a New York state man who confessed to a series of burglaries in Warren last Thursday night.

The chain of events leading police to the man started at 8:35 a.m. Sunday when Jamestown police advised borough police of a stolen car. Sunday night, Jamestown police said they were looking for two men, LeRoy Nash and John Thompson, in connection with break-ins there. Borough police were told the pair might be somewhere in the vicinity of 911 Fourth ave.

Yesterday morning, Sgt. Donald Fitch, in checking the Fourth avenue area, spotted the reported stolen car, a yellow Chevrolet station wagon. Joined by Officers James Neall and Charles Musante, with Lt. Howard Ristau in charge of the investigation, police checked at 911 Fourth ave. for the pair and learned of Nash's whereabouts. It was learned later that Thompson already had been picked up. Since it was known Nash was just outside the borough limits, the borough police were joined by Chief Deputy Sheriff Richard E. Hegerty and state police trooper Max J. Bizzak of the Warren substation. Hegerty, Bizzak, Fitch and Neall made the actual apprehension.

Nash was subsequently interrogated and confessed to burglaries at Segel's salvage yard, Reliable Furniture Store and Soda and Mineral Water Co. last week. The investigation, however, is being continued here.

Nash was arrested on a fugitive from justice warrant and released to Jamestown authorities who will question him as to offenses allegedly committed there. He confessed to stealing the car.

Lt. Ristau said yesterday afternoon that the FBI has also joined the investigation. Interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle is a federal offense.

Future of Garbage Collection In Jamestown Appears Uncertain

JAMESTOWN — The future of garbage collection in Jamestown, N.Y., appeared to be very uncertain yesterday, when no bids were received by City Clerk Clinton Watson for the scheduled opening at 2 p.m.

Curo Construction Company of Cleveland, who has been contracted for the service for the past 10 years, informed the city some time ago that they were getting out of the garbage collecting business.

The present contract with Curo Construction Co. expires on April 30, but City Council asked for and received an extension until June 30 on the contract.

The total cost of the present contract together with the two-month extension and the annual Spring pickup of rubbish is $194,000.

The uncertainty of the Fluvanna avenue disposal site may have been the reason no bids were received. That disposal site has been deemed inadequate by the Chautauque County Health Dept.

The present contract provides for collection and disposal of garbage at the city-owned dump, but the new specifications called upon contractor's to provide the disposal area, as well as collect the garbage.

City Council also asked for curbside pickup of garbage, which is now picked up at the rear of houses or from porches.

Department of Public Works Director, Joseph Veale indicated that City Council must re-evaluate the entire problem and must also readvertise for bids.

CALLS IT 'NUISANCE'

70-Year-Old Widow Fights Paper Mill

JOHNSONBURG — This community's biggest industry is being sued by a 70-year-old widow who claims it is a public nuisance.

Mrs. Antoinette Beaver, the owner of two properties on West Center street, is asking $150,000 damages and an injunction against the mechanical woodyard of the New York and Pennsylvania Co., a firm which manufactures paper.

Mrs. Beaver, in the civil suit filed in Elk County Court at Ridgway, claims the company's operations cause a great deal of dust, noise, and vibrations. She says this is a nuisance, a health hazard, and have caused her property damage.

Her suit charges that the company operates in violation of the Johnsonburg Zoning Ordinance of 1964. The ordinance says, "no lot shall be used nor building erected, altered or used for trade, business, or industry which is obnoxious or offensive by reason of odor, dust, smoke, vibration, alumination, noise or which otherwise creates a nuisance or hazard to public health, safety, and welfare."

It's not the first legal action the company has faced from the widow. Last December, Judge John Cherry of the Elk County Court ruled that a permit allowing the company to operate its mechanical woodyard be revoked on the basis of a suit filed by Mrs. Beaver.

General of 28th Plans to Retire In a Few Days

HARRISBURG (AP) — Maj. Gen. Henry K. Fluck plans to retire as commander of the 28th Infantry Division, Pennsylvania Army National Guard.

"I plan to retire within the next few days," Fluck said Saturday and said the reason for his action is personal.

Meanwhile, State Adj. Gen. Thomas R. White said that, according to army regulation, Brig. Gen. Frank Townsend of Wilkes-Barre, senior deputy commander, would fill the vacancy when Fluck retires.

Gov. Shafer would have to appoint a permanent replacement.

Commissioners Seeking Accord on Cobham Fund

The county commissioners, in their capacity as trustees of the Hoffman estate Friday approved a resolution requesting the Salvation Army to accept the plan presented before Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. last month. The plan proposes a joint Hoffman - trustees - Salvation Army administration of the Hoffman Home as approved by Commissioners D.H. Lay and Lewis L. Crippen and opposed by Blain Mead. It suggests the Army administer the $250,000 Cobham fund, the Hoffman trustees its $350,000 capital fund and the income from both be used to help finance the Hoffman Home.

This plan also recommends a nine-member board of directors, three from the Salvation Army, three Hoffman trustees and three appointed to represent the public. The April grand jury recommended appointment of lay persons to serve on the Hoffman board of directors.

On March 28, however, the Warren Advisory Board of the Salvation Army, adopted its own resolution to the effect it will not approve the Hoffman trustees' plan relating to the possible joint operation.

The Army board said its opinion was that any form of joint operation would not be within the contemplation of Henry and Ann Cobham under the trust agreement and other writings signed by them, in which they repeatedly expressed confidence in the Army and their clear desire their contemplated home for children be operated by the Salvation Army. On March 3, the Salvation Army of the State of New York, through its board of trustees asking the court to authorize the Cobham trustees to pay to the Salvation Army the cost of one of the cottages at Ivy House in Philadelphia—$88,000 from income. The cottage would be designated as the memorial cottage to Henry and Ann Cobham. Part of the $88,000 would be applied to the construction at Ivy House of a recreational building. The resolution asked the court that the balance of the Cobham trust income be used to pay the cost of maintenance of children from Warren County without further cost for their support, as well as children other than those in Warren County at Ivy House.

Documents in regard to the Cobham fund, the first dated 1907, gave the Army an outright gift from the Cobhams of $27,800 and was devoid of reference to orphans or neglected children. In Ann Cobham's will the word "orphan" appeared for the first time. Under the agreement entrusted to the Army by Henry and Ann, it was understood the children receive not only refuge but a practical farming and general common school education be taught.

The Hoffman trustees contend the practical farming schooling is available at both Youngsville and Eisenhower High schools. The Cobham trustees have told the court that the required education is available at the Philadelphia High School of Agriculture and Horticulture. The school maintains a 75-acre farm in the middle of Philadelphia, complete with woods, barns, poultry houses and related facilities.

Under the 1907 agreement, the Army was to use Cobham funds to erect buildings "a short distance north of the residence at Stony Lonesome, if such be deemed practicable by my trustee for orphan children... of Warren County or elsewhere."

Following Ann Cobham's death, her husband wrote that he termed a "public statement" or unilateral paper clarifying the "desire" that an institution be erected and according a "large measure of freedom" to the trustees.

The county commissioner's resolution has been forwarded to the Salvation Army board, which has already approved using the Cobham funds for the benefit of Warren County children at Ivy House.

After nearly 15 years of litigation, the next hearing is scheduled for 2 p.m. Tuesday, April 25.

Mother Saves Children

JOHNSONBURG — A mother threw her four children to safety and leaped herself to escape their burning home Sunday night. She is in good condition at Elk County General Hospital in Ridgway. Neighbors caught the children as they were thrown from the second floor. The house and belongings of the Stuart Carnahan family were destroyed.

SUMMER ATTRACTION

Historical Drama Sought for County

An historical-cultural committee established by the Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau has launched a thorough study of the feasibility of an outdoor musical historical drama for Warren County which could become a major tourist attraction for the area.

Henry LeMour, vice president of the National Forge Co., has been named chairman of the project and has held a preliminary meeting with Mark R. Sumner, director of the Institute of Outdoor Drama at the University of North Carolina.

Next step in the investigation is a visit to Warren by Paul Green, Pulitzer Prize-winning author who wrote "The Lost Colony" at Manteo, N.C. He will meet with historians and bureau members to discuss local historical events which might be possibilities for an original drama.

If the findings of the study committee are favorable to the idea, a period of from two to three years would be required to place the drama in production.

LeMour pointed out that the vacation bureau is undertaking the study in the belief that the area needs a variety of tourist attractions complementing the outdoor recreation facilities which are now built or will be in the next few years.

"There are relatively few outdoor dramas in this country," LeMour said, "but most have been very successful, especially in rural areas such as ours. If the committee finds a potential market for this type of attraction, it no doubt, would recommend the establishment of a non-profit corporation to carry on the program."

Some of the successful outdoor dramas in addition to "The Lost Colony" are "The Legend of Daniel Boone," "The Stephen Foster Story," "The Common Glory" at Williamsburg, and "Texas," also written by Paul Green.

The shows usually are given throughout the summer months in an outdoor amphitheater setting.

Robert Dilks, vacation bureau chairman, said the outdoor drama committee is only one of several now functioning. Among the others at work are a market analysis committee, an accommodations committee, an attractions committee, exhibits and shows, and membership and finance.

Working with LeMour on the outdoor drama study are Kenneth Stratton, Leroy Schneek, executive director Charles Tranter, and Dilks.

Brick-Hurling Priest Protests Mini-Skirts

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. — A priest of the Holy Eucharist Monastery declared his own war on mini-skirts Saturday by hurling bricks through a store window here.

Father Raphael Patrick Kenel, 44, of Dewittville, N. Y., a former officer in the Merchant Marine and pilot in the Suez Canal, was charged with malicious mischief. He is accused by police of breaking several large windows in the Brownhill Shoe Store, 15 E. Third st.

Father Patrick told newsmen he performed the unusual act to draw attention to "an assault on Christianity by advertising agencies, merchants and the women's garment industry."

The monk charged mini-skirts are encouraging a lower morality among young people. He did not comment on how he intends to pursue his campaign against the ultra-short dresses but said his present objective was to bring sharp attention to the mode which started in England.

Father Patrick, who was released on $250 cash bail provided by a parishioner, said he realized he made a spectacle of himself and added "But I don't know if there's a better way (to protest mini-skirts) than for a priest to make a spectacle of himself."

Magnuson Gaining Jamestown Favor

JAMESTOWN — Charles B. Magnuson of 121 Newton ave. appears to have won the favor of at least a majority of the city Republican committee to be its candidate for mayor in the fall election.

Magnuson, an insurance man and the son of former Assemblyman Herman S. Magnuson is believed by many to be stronger candidate for the top elected post than freshman city councilman Warren P. Erickson.

Erickson's backers, mostly the young and more liberal element of the city's Republican committee, say they are not convinced that Magnuson can upset incumbent mayor Fred H. Dunn. They point out that Magnuson has lost two elections in a row, while Erickson, as the lone GOP member of the city council, has emerged as the leader for all city Republicans to follow.

It is generally conceded by most that the GOP candidate for mayor two years ago Alpine (Piney) Johnson was not a strong candidate and that city Republicans are determined that Mayor Fred Dunn be defeated. Two years ago Democrat Dunn scored a record victory, polling 4,000 more votes than his opponent.

One leading Republican also has indicated that Carl J. Fagerstrom of 30 Gweldolyn ave. and former chairman of Jamestown Public Utilities might have some support on the committee. At this point no Republicans seem willing to rule out a possibility of a citywide primary fight in June. A primary contest, however, might result if the city GOP committee cannot agree on a candidate when they meet this week.

Prospective donors are reminded that the bloodmobile will make a split visit to Warren County this week. Thursday's hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Warren State Hospital, and 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Red Cross Chapter House on Market street. All participants are asked to make a special effort to be on hand to meet the quota of 200 pints, which will offset the reduced collections of past visits.

Science Fair Winner

Nick M. Szeverinyi of Warren High won third place and a cruise of five days aboard a U.S. Navy ship in the Bradford science fair Saturday. His exhibit was on "Amino Acids in Human Blood." Nick will take the cruise at a later date. The science fair was sponsored by the Penn-York Chapter of the American Chemical Society.

Three Missing Youngsters Found Quickly

Three young people reported missing over the weekend turned up quickly, Chief Deputy Sheriff Richard E. Hegerty said yesterday.

A call came in about 7:45 p.m. Sunday from the Clarendon fire department that two Boy Scouts had become separated from a group hiking in the Clarendon and Jake's Rocks area and were missing.

While Hegerty was talking with the scout leader, Thomas Nuffer, in charge of the hiking expedition, the two, Eugene Hulings, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McClellan, and William McClellan, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McClellan, Tiona, walked out onto Route 59 at Tiona.

At 6 p.m. Saturday, Hegerty was notified a girl, Janice Trubie, was missing from the home of her step-father William Hayes of Roystone. She, with the family dog, at 2 p.m. left for a hike through the woods near her home. She had not returned by 5 p.m. but was found about 6:45 p.m. in a wooded area near Four-Mile and headed in the direction of Roystone.

A MAJOR HARBINGER OF SPRING in this area is the annual sectional duplicate bridge tournament sponsored by the North-eastern Pennsylvania Unit of the American Contract Bridge League. Once again, from April 20th to April 23rd, the David Lead Inn in Meadville will know the deep silence of concentration, hear the authoritative bid made, and the quiet purposeful snap of well-played cards. Formerly known as the Cross Creek Sectional, it has been more accurately renamed the Seven Cities Sectional Tournament, honoring Corry, Franklin, Greenville, Meadville, Oil City, Sharon and Titusville. Players are expected from a hundred mile radius—and you too can attend, one does not necessarily have to be an expert to enjoy watching highly intelligent, skillful bridge being played, much can be learned as an interested onlooker! This is the schedule to be followed: Women's Pairs Friday, April 21st, at 2 p.m.; Mixed Pairs and Non-Masters Pairs that evening at 8; Open Pairs on Saturday, April 22nd, 2 p.m. and 8 p.m., with the first session a qualifying round, Special Pairs that evening also at 8; and a team of four event on Sunday, April 23rd, at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m., with all teams playing both sessions. (The Non-Masters Pairs are limited to players each having less than 50 registered master points.) Local players who made last year's winners circle include Mrs. Shirl Glass, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer A. Kornreich, Mrs. Eric Wilkinson, Mrs. Richard Stahlman, Miss Felicia Lucia, Mr. R. H. Israel, Mr. James Valone, and, from Jamestown, Mr. Louis Wallace.

THE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Endress of 108 Biddle street, will be observed with a reception on Sunday, April 16th, in Memorial Parlors of First Presbyterian Church, from 2 to 5 o'clock. All relatives, neighbors and friends are invited by their children who are hosting the affair: Mr. and Mrs. D. Robert Endress of Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Howard (Neva) Ladner of Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Wilma) Kauffman of Eden, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. Donald Endress of Ontario, California, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund (Kathryn) Farynowski of Warren.

HOME FROM BRADENTON, FLORIDA, where they spent the last five cold winter months, are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Newgreen of 20 Russell street. The Newgreens make the trip annually to the land of the semi-tropics, making their headquarters in various locations—One year it was Fort Myers, and others Daytona or St. Petersburg.

PARENTS WITHOUT PARTNERS, INC., Chautauqua Regional Chapter No. 37, will meet this Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Jamestown YMCA. A film will be shown about 13 and 14 year old boys. Their actions and reactions towards parents, adults, school and their own age group, is the theme of "The Age Of Turmoil." April 23rd a roller skating party at Celeron at 8 p.m.; April 28th, James Hedberg of 219 Niagara ave., Jamestown, will host a Coffee Hour and Conversation; then on May 6th, a Dutch Treat at the Suburban House is planned for 8 o'clock, to which guests will be welcome. Charles Tremaine is president of this chapter of the international organization which is devoted to the welfare and interests of single parents and their children; Mr. and Mrs. Simon Goldman and the Rev. Eugene Adams are sponsors.

MINIATURES: Farrahettes are holding their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Russell Jackson, 35 Hillside drive, this Thursday at 8 p.m.

The Western Pennsylvania Women's Society Conference is meeting in Franklin on Thursday at 10 a.m. The principal speaker will be Mrs. Frances E. Kearns, wife of the resident bishop of the Methodist Ohio East Area. There will be election and installation of officers and yearly reports.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR READERS: In all the years I have been writing this column I have never received such a barrage of vitriolic, abusive and downright nasty letters as was provoked by my plea for tighter gun laws. I printed some of the less venomous letters yesterday and promised that today I would print the best letter in support of my position. I am happy to say it was written by a teenager. Here it is:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 17-year-old boy who agrees emphatically with your stand on the easy availability of guns. You asked your readers to write to their senators and congressmen urging them to pass some decent gun laws. If you know anything about human nature, Ann Landers, you know that very few people will take the time and trouble to do it. They may agree with you but that's as far as they will go. I have a suggestion which I hope you will consider worthy.

Why don't YOU write a letter and print it in the paper and ask your readers to tear it out and mail it to their senator or congressman in Washington? This is to let them know we want a federal law prohibiting the shipment of guns across state lines. Instruct your readers to write the following message across the column: "Please read this column and then forward it to the Speaker of The House in Our State Legislature." This is to let HDM know we also want STATE laws strictly controlling sale and registration of all kinds of guns.

If several thousand columns hit the desks of our legislators (both national and state), we will surely get the kind of action we need to make this country a safer and saner place to live. Thank you. — R. S. F. OF CHICAGO

DEAR CHICAGO TEEN: Thank you for an excellent suggestion. Below is the letter which I hope will be torn out of thousands of newspapers and sent to the senators and congressmen in Washington. If you don't know the name of your senator or congressman, call your newspaper and don't forget to follow the boy's suggestion and jot down a request that he forward the column to the speaker of your state legislature.

DEAR LAWMAKER: Do you want to buy a gun? Well, go right ahead. Nobody will ask you how old you are, if you are a mental defective, if you have a criminal record, or if you know how to use firearms properly. If you can pay for a gun you can have one—a rifle, a bazooka, a pistol, an anti-tank blaster, any kind of gun for your little heart desires.

If you can't get to a gun store or a pawn shop, fill out a coupon and get a gun through the mail. Lee Oswald did it and nothing has changed since then. You can do it, too.

If all this sounds unsettling, let me assure you it is. I am writing to you because you and you alone can put an end to this appalling situation. We need a federal law to prohibit the shipment of guns across state lines. We need state laws that make it mandatory for every gun owner to be registered.

According to the Gallup Poll taken for NBC, approximately 75 per cent of the American people want tougher gun laws. We have no paid lobbyists, no organization to espouse our cause, no one to speak for us, so we must speak for ourselves. We ask your help, Mr. Lawmaker, in the name of the 17,000 Americans who died last year from gunshot wounds. — Sincerely,
Your Constituent.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN THOMAS GANLEY
(McGarry Studio)

Miss Sandra Seymour
Bride of John Ganley

Sandra Jean Seymour and John Thomas Ganley exchanged their wedding vows in a double ring ceremony held in Grace Methodist Church on Saturday, April 1, at 2 p.m. The Rev. Ralph S. Findley officiated at the service in the presence of approximately one hundred and fifty guests.

Richard Pratt played traditional wedding music on the organ and altar decorations were two vases of white Shasta daisies and snapdragons.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Seymour of 34 Glade ave., Warren, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Ganley of 831 Washington street, Meadville.

Escorted on the arm of her father, the bride was gowned in a long bridal dress of imported silk organza and Chantilly lace. It had an empire bodice of the lace with rounded scalloped neckline and above elbow sleeves; a panel of the lace adorned the front of the A-line skirt; highlighting the lace was seed pearl embroidery. At the back was a full chapel train, falling in graceful folds, of silk organza. Her three tier veil of silk illusion was secured by a matching lace crown with seed pearl and crystal trim and her flowers were white Shasta daisies arranged in a colonial bouquet. Mrs. John DeLong of Groton, Connecticut was the matron of honor in a gown of white lace over blue taffeta with blue organza. A cluster of roses secured a short veil and she carried yellow Shasta daisies. Bridesmaid was Miss Nancy Schuler, a cousin of the bride, in a dress of the same style as the honor attendant's, but in yellow. Her flowers were blue Shasta daisies. Mistress Karen Seymour, sister of the bride in a frock matching that of the bridesmaid, carried blue Shasta daisies and wore a yellow bow in her hair.

The best man was Fred C. Bates of Meadville, a cousin of the groom. Ushers were Patrick Ganley of Meadville, brother of the groom; Thomas and Richard Seymour, brothers of the bride.

The mother of the bride chose a blue dress of chiffon and nylon with matching accessories, and the mother of the groom was in a three-piece knit suit of turquoise with matching accessories. Both had corsages of white roses. Mrs. Alva Seymour and Mrs. E. E. Scandrett, both grandmothers of the bride, were remembered with corsages of white carnations.

A reception for one hundred guests was held in Fellowship Hall of Grace Methodist Church. Decorations were carried out in yellow and white, with the dominant note the five tier wedding cake. Aides were Miss Karen Lundmark, Miss Stephanie Dietrich, Miss Sandra Peterson.

Household Hints

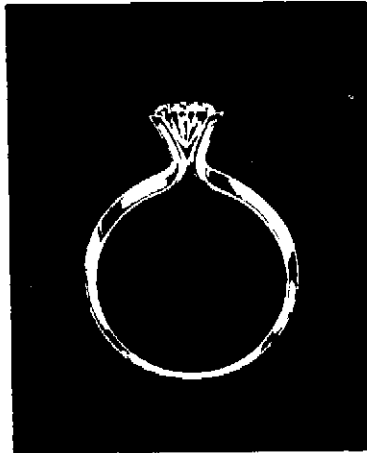

Use popcorn for croutons on children's soups. They'll love it, and it gets rid of leftover popcorn.

To clean a shower head of mineral deposits, remove it and boil in full-strength vinegar 15 to 20 minutes. Cool, rinse, wipe dry and replace.

Before putting up screens, wash them and coat with self-polishing wax. A quick dusting is all that will be necessary to keep them clean.

Coating the eyelets of white shoes with clear nail polish prevents discoloration of laces and tongues.

Hints From Heloise

Cottage Cheese Dip

DEAR HELOISE: Cottage cheese whipped in a blender makes a terrific low calorie substitute for sour cream. It's wonderful for dips, beef stroganoff, etc. Try it!

Marianne

Now, this was what I thought was a perfect hint, but I sure am glad I tested it.

You must add some milk! The cottage cheese won't whip without it.

While I was blending away, I peeled a small onion and blended that in, too. Makes a delicious dip. And no hunk of grated onion like when you grate or chop it.

And best of all for those of you who actually count calories per ounce and percentage of fat, here's the actual run down from the dairies—just look at the difference:

Sour cream—57 calories per ounce—18% fat.

Creamed cottage cheese—30 calories per ounce—4% fat.

And think of the money you can save by using cottage cheese instead of real sour cream. I've served this to my guests for two months and they all agree it's great.

Make any dip you want to out of it.

Add (or mix) bits of Roquefort, chopped onions, chives, chopped olives, bacon, or best of all, grated carrots. Wow, that's a change from the usual dip and sure gives it color and bulk. Happy dipping.

Your Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Please tell your readers not to send "Get Well" cards with glitter on them to bedridden folks or ones in hospitals.

This glitter gets all over the bed and clothing, makes hands sticky and even cuts!

"Reedja Allatime"

DEAR HELOISE:

I have found an inexpensive and convenient way to keep track of coupons, receipts and bills for those who don't have a file box.

I bought a box of 100 envelopes and use as many envelopes as I want, one envelope for each category, such as rent receipts, electric bills, etc.

On the outside of the flap, I write the name of what's in the envelope.

I then replace the envelopes in the box in alphabetical order without folding the flaps down.

It's very easy to keep track of all those little coupons and things this way, and if you wish to add another category, you simply add another envelope.

Gale Whitten

If you don't buy your envelopes by the box, just find a box that is the right width so that the envelopes will fit in neatly.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

An opened dog or cat food can fit nicely into a one pound coffee can with a plastic top.

This eliminates odors in the ice box, and is very convenient and easy to use when your pet does not eat an entire can of food.

After a business meeting the Rev. Lyston Knappenberger showed a filmstrip entitled "Wanted and Found" and spoke for the Commission on Finance. He said the church will be conducting a campaign during this month and next month to get more volunteers for all phases of church activity. Also the members of the church should be willing to give of their time

Through The Looking Glass

When one enters the Warren General Hospital Auxiliary's annual Charity Ball at the Woman's Club on Saturday, May 6, it will be like stepping through the magic of the Looking Glass and into Alice's Wonderland.

But even now behind the Looking Glass, activities, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Robert Bowen, have begun to recreate the whimsical fantasy of Lewis Carroll's Alice in Wonderland. Decorating co-chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kay will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rapp, Mrs. Jack Donaldson, Mrs. Creed Erickson Jr., Mrs. John Dalton, Mrs. Bert Levinson, Mrs. LeRoy Schneck, Mrs. Harry W. Conarro Jr., Mrs. Arthur J. O'Connor, Clarence Pearson, and the Misses Beth and Jane Culbertson.

Mrs. Richard Krapfel and her committee, Mrs. Harold Johnson and Mrs. Thomas Marsh are in charge of general admission tickets.

The artistic talents of Mrs. Richard Betts and Mrs. Richard McClain will bring the White Rabbit, Mad Hatter, Queen of Hearts and others to life on posters and will help bring you through the Looking Glass to Alice's Ball.

Mrs. John Haggerty is in charge of programs and Mrs. John Newmaker will have several Candy Strippers in costumes providing a whimsical note to the Ball.

Also working to ensure the success of the Ball is the publicity committee of Mrs. Charles Tranter, Mrs. Robert Sokolski, Mrs. William U. Porter and Mrs. Kenneth Stratton.

Mrs. Frank Butt and Mrs. Harold Reinhard, co-chairmen of the hospital auxiliary's patron ticket committee have announced the following members of their committee: Mrs. John Fanaritis, Mrs. William Hill Jr., Mrs. Henry LeMeur, Mrs. Harry Speidel, Mr. William Yeager Sr., Mrs. Frank Thomas, Mrs. Robert Moran, Mrs. John Newmaker, Mrs. Chester Christensen and Mrs. Theodore Kottraba.

Newcomers Learn Flower Arranging

Flower arranging was the theme of the Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club meeting in Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church this past week. Larry Hauptman demonstrated several displays and gave general advice and helpful hints in effective arrangements.

Fortunate members who returned home with the flowers were Carol Albrecht, Martha Baker, Kate Doran, Mary Ford, Johnette Heary, Sarah Racine, Catherine Rehm and Kathy Will. Members were reminded of the evening bowling party to be held at the Riverside Bowling Lanes on Saturday, April 15, at 8 p.m. Plans for the dinner dance at Jackson Valley Country Club on June 3 were also furthered. All members were also reminded that dues are now payable to the treasurer, Cass Neale, and must be in by April 15.

YWCA Spring Workshop Set For April and May

Two of the invigorating and informative programs to be presented during the annual series of spring workshops at the YWCA are scheduled for the month of April. On Tuesday evening, April 18, at 7:30, Charles Neel, one of the country's best authorities on birds of America will entertain his audience with a presentation entitled, "Fur, Flowers and Feathers".

Mr. Neel has his own bird sanctuary in the Saybrook-Arnot Run area, bands thousands of birds each year as a licensed bander, and is a prominent member of four Audubon societies. His photographic illustrations are superb, and his discussion an absorbing introduction to an exciting world of natural color, beauty and action.

A nominal charge of 50 cents is being made for this evening's entertainment, but any child 12-years-of-age, or under, accompanied by an adult will be admitted free of charge. This program is being offered to men as well as women and no YWCA membership is required. On Thursday, April 27, at 1:15, Mrs. Joseph DeFrees will once again assemble her "Bicycle Brigade" at the YWCA for the first of a series of five invigorating afternoon cycling tours through our beautiful countryside. The destination will be announced in advance for each week of the series. No fee is charged for participation in this group, but YWCA membership is required. Baby sitting service will be available at 25 cents per child, provided the request is made at least one day in advance.

Valuable and helpful programs to be offered during the month of May will include such subjects as "Nursing Care Tips and General First Aid," to be taught by Carolyn Patchen, R.N., "Resuscitation and Revival Swimming," to be taught by Robert Hammerbeck, and "Outdoor Cooking Deluxe" by Mrs. Evelyn Overturn, Penelope Home Economist.

Dates and details concerning these programs will appear at a later date, but descriptive circulars concerning the courses may be obtained at the YWCA office at any time, or inquiries and reservations may be made by calling the office at 723-6350.

St. Michael's Notes

Our Lady Guild of St. Michael's Parish is planning a rummage sale in Warren, Parishioners and friends are asked to bring any articles for sale to the church hall where they will be prepared for the sale which will be announced at a later date.

The annual Legion of Mary Acies will be held next Sunday, April 16, at 3 p.m., in the Church of the Good Shepherd, West Middlesex, Pa. All auxiliary members and interested parishioners are invited.

The third Sunday after Easter is dedicated to the Paralytic of the gospel narrative.

CARMEN LOMBARDO

Carmen Lombardo Has 'Color'

Few men in the history of the music business have been as much discussed, as much imitated, or had as much of that indescribable quality known as "color" as Carmen Lombardo. He will be seen and heard in Warren on Sunday, May 7, at 8:30 p.m., when the Lions Club presents Guy Lombardo and His Royal Canadians in the Warren High School Auditorium.

Carmen, younger brother of Guy, is the band's key instrumentalist. In addition, he is among the nation's foremost songwriters, having composed such standard favorites as "Seems Like Old Times," "Boo-Hoo," "Little Coquette," "Sweethearts on Parade," and "Powder Your Face with Sunshine."

And though in these days he seldom steps up to the microphone to sing, his famous unforgettable singing voice remains one of the most imitated of them all.

It is Carmen's unusual technique on the saxophone and flute that is basically responsible for the unique singing tone of Guy Lombardo's orchestra. In the music world, Carmen's sax technique is described as "slurring" from one note to another and it is generally recognized that he was the first to bring this technique to American music.

Born in London, Ontario, as were all the brothers, Carmen's original musical training was as a concert flutist. Sturdily built, he has been nicknamed "The Bull" by the members of the orchestra. An avid sportsman, he is a crack horseman and shares Guy's interest in boating, fishing and swimming.

THE INVADERS at 8:30 p.m., on Ch. 7 has Robert Walker as guest star, with Lynn Loring and R. G. Armstrong, in "Pan-ic." David Vincent races against aliens to capture one of their ill members who is causing an epidemic of freezing deaths.

Deaf Man Perfects Midget Transistor Hearing Aid

If you can hear people talk and can't make out the words clearly then this may be the answer. An extremely small hearing aid using a tiny energized unit, has been perfected by a man who himself is hard of hearing and has been for over 10 years. If interested it is suggested you write A. W. Newell, 2616 W. 8th St., Erie Pa. You will receive full information at no cost or obligation whatsoever.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
(c 1967 By The Chicago Tribune)
ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q 1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold
♠ 632 ♣ KJ107542 ♣ 754
The bidding has proceeded
West North East South
1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A—Pass. The ace is very thin and you had better not move. It would be very pleasant to bid three diamonds if you were sure your partner would not take any further action but that would be wishful thinking. He is almost sure to bid again and probably more hearts. It does not pay to rescue a partner who has not been doubled.
Q 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold
♠ K10652 ♡ 9 ♢ 43 ♣ AKJ42
The bidding has proceeded
North East South West
Pass 1 ♢ Dble. Pass
2 ♡ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
4 ♠ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A—Five diamonds or six spades. Despite the fact that partner previously passed you should be very bullish about this hand because partner would not take any action unless he has the ace king of hearts and the queen jack of spades that's all you need. He should surely have that much for his two rumps. You have a choice of bidding five diamonds or shooting the works yourself.
Q 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold
♠ 9762 ♣ KJ74 ♢ J85 ♣ 64
The bidding has proceeded
East South West North
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Dble.
Pass 1 ♠ Pass 3 ♡
Pass ?
What action do you take?
A—Four hearts. Partners bid is not forcing and you haven't very much of a hand to be sure. But you should proceed to game inasmuch as partner has con-tinued for four tricks without making an overcall for his strength at all. Actually, he has the heart hand and you in reality are the dummy which is worth six points to partner.
Q 4—Neither vulnerable as South you hold
♠ AQJ982 ♣ K63 ♢ AQ2 ♣ 5
The bidding has proceeded
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♡ Pass
What action do you take?
A—Three spades. After partner has shown a reasonably good hand, you should insist upon game and a jump bid even in the same suit is forcing after a response at the two level. If the bidding develops constructively you may show the diamond suit later.
Q 5—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold
♠ AJ4 ♡ 94 ♢ 63 ♣ AKQ973
The bidding has proceeded
East South West North
1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠
Pass ?
What action do you take?
A—Three spades. The temptation is to try three no trump should be resisted. Without protection in either red suit you may meet with a surprise attack. After you show the spade control you may rely on partner to reach for three no trump if his hand is suitable.
Q 6—Both vulnerable, and as South you hold
♠ K4 ♡ AJ82 ♢ KQ83 ♣ AJ5
The bidding has proceeded
South West North East
1 NT Pass 2 NT 3 ♠
What action do you take?
A—Strike while the iron is hot. Double and this is one that East will long remember. Do not aim for anything so trivial as a game when a possible 1100 point plum awaits to be picked.
Q 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold
♠ AQ84 ♡ AKQ2 ♢ 73 ♣ 652
The bidding has proceeded
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♡ Pass
2 ♡ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
What action do you take?
A—A further bid by you is clearly indicated. You must not be hard to say. Since partner has shown me a mere preference, I pass. Remember partner has shown a fairly good hand by taking out at the level of two and your hand is worth 16 points. Bid three spades.
Q 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold
♠ 62 ♡ AQJ63 ♢ K74 ♣ K75
The bidding has proceeded
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
What is your rebid?
A—One no trump. This is preferable to a rebid of two hearts in that it gives a more accurate description as to the type of hand. A balanced hand of minimum high card strength.

WHY BOTHER WITH ONE-ROOM AIR CONDITIONERS WHEN—
WHOLE-HOUSE GAS AIR CONDITIONING
COSTS $14.00 A MONTH TO OWN!

Probably the reason some people still go for those roaring window air conditioners is that they haven't heard how little it costs to own whole house Gas air conditioning.
Hear it now. Fourteen dollars a month not only buys a powerful three-ton capacity Gas central air conditioning system, but installs it too. Pay nothing down for normal installation.
Gas air conditioning is the quietest longest lived and most trouble free of any central home cooling system. Economical Gas can cool your whole house for a fraction of the cost of running a flock of noisy one room air conditioners.
Call your Gas Company today and order yourself a comfortable summer.

THINK OF ALL THE THINGS YOU CAN DO WITH THE MONEY YOU SAVE GAS MAKES THE BIG DIFFERENCE

FHA Accepting Applications For Insured Housing Loans

Applications for insured housing loans through the Farmers Home Administration are being accepted from families in all income groups, the FHA office for Warren and Erie counties has announced.

Until recently, only funds for families with low and moderate incomes have been available. President Johnson has made a new allocation of lending authority available to the FHA. The order authorizes $25 million more in housing loans to be insured for families in the upper income brackets.

The new ruling has no effect on rural housing loans, which has an allocation of $300 million for this fiscal year. Applications for loans can be made at FHA offices in the post office buildings at Warren, Corry, and Erie. FHA loans are available to rural families and to persons who live in towns of not more than 5,000 in population. The maximum lending period is 33 years, with interest of five per cent in the low income range and six per cent for above and moderate income brackets.

Leading Indicators Mark Sharp Drops

(c) N.Y. Times News Service NEW YORK — Stock prices slumped on a broad front yesterday. Leading market indicators registered their sharpest one-day losses since last November.

On the New York Stock Exchange the closing roster showed 980 issues down from Friday's close, compared with 255 that finished higher.

Turnover on the big board sagged to 8.11 million shares from 9.09 million on Friday. The Dow-Jones industrial average dropped 10.91 points, to 842.43.

The New York Stock Exchange composite index slumped 0.60 point, to 48.50, and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dropped 1.12 points, to 88.24.

The New York Times combined average of 50 industrial and railroad stocks fell 6.75 points to 491.07.

Factors contributing to the slide included:

- A string of unfavorable first-quarter earnings reports, including indications that profits of E. I. du Pont were down 24 per cent from a year ago.
- The early decline of the Dow-Jones industrial average through the 850 level, supposedly an area of technical resistance to further weakness.
- Reaction to the shutdown of nation-wide trucking operations because of labor disputes.
- The prospects of a strike this week against the nation's railroads, a threat that eased after the close when railway and union negotiations extended the strike deadline to May 3.
- Selling by investors to meet income-tax deadlines.

Only two of the 15 most active stocks gained on the day. They were Sperry Rand, which rose 1/8, to 30 3/4, and Seaboard Airline Railroad, which shot up 5 1/2 to 50 3/4.

Gulf and Western Industries, the most active stock, dropped 2 1/4 to 49 1/4.

Among the heaviest losers were Xerox, down 5 1/2, to 258 1/2; IBM, 5 1/2, to 440 1/4; Ling-Temco-Vought, 4 1/2, to 122 1/2; Corning Glass, 4, to 320, and Telephonic, 3 1/2, to 133 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange prices dropped sharply. The Exchange's index of stock prices dropped 20 cents to 17.14. Trading volume dropped to 2,923,680, compared with 3,584,070 Friday.

Gale Industries, the most active stock, dropped 3/8 to 3 3/4. Flying Tiger, second most active, was down 7/8 at 32 1/2. Syntex dropped 2 1/4 at 87 1/2. Solitron Devices gained 4 1/2 to 174; Rodney Metals was up 2 1/2 at 32 1/2 and Levin Townsend Computer gained 1 1/2 at 33. Industrial issues were lower, on the Over-the-Counter market. Bank and life insurance issues were steady.

"Your Auto Service Center In WARREN" ---

Chamberlain Sales Inc. 617 PENNA. AVE. E. — WARREN, PA.

"I'm a stock broker. Here's what investors should know about talking to a broker."

How would we start our conversation?

"Talk about the subject you know best—yourself. The broker wants you to feel completely at ease, and there's no better way than to make your own position clear right at the start. Tell him something about your financial situation, the amount you might invest after taking care of living expenses and the usual emergencies, and the investment goal you have in mind."

What if I don't know exactly what my goal should be?

"You wouldn't be the first. Many brokers feel that one of their most important services is to help the investor understand himself—how much risk he can afford and how an investment might help him get what he wants out of life."

Suppose I just want to make some money?

"That's what everybody wants, but there are different ways to approach it."

You mean different kinds of securities for different goals?

"Yes. Some people want a second income from dividends, so they examine a stock's dividend record and current yield. Others can invest their money and leave it in the market to grow. Others want to put their money in securities where they think the risk is relatively small—maybe bonds or high-grade preferred stocks. But picking exactly the right security is not as simple as pushing a button. There is risk in any investment, stocks or anything else."

When we've agreed on a goal, can I leave the rest up to the broker?

"It's your money and you'll want to have the final say in what you buy. Ask your broker for several stocks to consider. Ask him about a company's earnings and dividend record. Ask for his own opinion of a company's prospects. Discuss the risks. His job is to help you reason your way to a sensible decision."

What about the broker's firm? Why pick a member firm of the New York Stock Exchange?

"Member firms operate under a remarkable set of rules. Some deal with a firm's finances—having adequate capital, for example, and periodic audits of their books. And the brokers must be full-time brokers. Rules like these—and there are hundreds of them—are the result of the Exchange's experience over 175 years."

Can you afford to let another year go by?

Cadillac is by far the soundest automotive investment in the world. Some of Cadillac's twelve models cost less than the corresponding models of other fine cars. And, in a surprising number of cases, they cost little more than cars in the middle-price range. One reason is that Cadillac is gifted with a wide variety of equipment that would cost extra on lesser cars. A Cadillac price sticker is always worthy of careful study. Then there is the matter of resale. It is a very real fact that Cadillac craftsmanship is an irresistible attraction to those who buy previously owned Cadillacs. After seven years, a person who buys a new Cadillac to drive his car for substantially less than many well-known makes over a one, two or three year span. And of course, Cadillac ownership offers satisfactions that cannot be measured in terms of cost. For how can you price its wonderful and relaxing quiet? Or its relaxing comfort? Or its incredibly smooth ride? Or don't let mother's tongue go by with appreciating Cadillac price. Cadillac comfort, Cadillac performance, and Cadillac value. Ask your authorized dealer for a demonstration.
